ROSS RANSOM TRICK FEARED

DEMOCRATS PUT ON PRESSURE TO END TRADE FEAR

Goal Is to Avert a 'Roosevelt Slump.'

Seeks Union Peace

HYDE PARK, N. Y.—President Roosevelt confers with Mme. Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, on forthcoming conference of representatives of the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O. Administration hopes for labor peace on theory it will stop slump in stock market. Details on page 9.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 17.—[Special.]—Democratic leaders are manifesting increasing alarm over the recession in business and the slump in the stock market.

Whether the decline of the stock market caused the recession in business or the recession in business caused the stock market slump or a loss of confidence in the Roosevelt administration caused both, the Democratic chieftains are turning to President Roosevelt to do something about it.

The procession of anxious Democrats to the President's door already has materialized and, in the light of current developments, is destined to take on greater proportions as soon as Mr. Roosevelt returns to the White House this week.

Fear Roosevelt Depression.

What the Democratic politicians fear more than anything else is a Roosevelt depression. They have won four national elections on what they called the "Hoover depression" and garnered no end of political capital from the "Roosevelt recovery." What they are asking themselves now is whether the current business recession presages a "Roosevelt depression" and a swing of the political pendulum in the opposite direction.

Unless counteracted in time a "Roosevelt depression," the Democratic strategists realize, would be likely to lead to Democratic reverses pretty generally in the 1938 elections. The Republicans would be almost certain to regain control of the house of representatives and make important gains in the senate. And such a Democratic reverse would point strongly to recapture of the White House by the Republicans in 1940.

Discloses Administration Split.

The episode discloses a split in the administration. On the one hand are those administration officials and Democratic party leaders who thinly veil their belief that the current situation in the business world is the result of fear that the Roosevelt policies are rendering private enterprise unprofitable. These leaders are urging the President to relax the severity of business tax laws, abandon his plans to regiment industry and agriculture, and take drastic steps to balance the budget.

On the other hand there are the brain trust members and other radical Roosevelt followers, who are more interested in promoting a collectivist economy than in maintaining a healthy capitalist régime. They are urging the President to stand pat, blaming the capitalists for the business recession and the stock market slump.

[A chart showing the movement of stock prices from Jan. 1, 1933, to last Saturday will be found in the business section of this issue.]

Holds with Radicals.

Apparently the President holds with the radical group, for in his fireside chat last Tuesday he said that "whatever danger there may be to the property and profits of the many, if there be any danger, comes not from the government's attitude toward business but from restraints now imposed upon business by private monopolies and financial oligarchies."

The fireside chat with its insistence on minimum wage and maximum hour legislation and crop limitation and its failure to point the way to budget balancing gave business men another attack of that sinking feeling and galvanized the Democratic leaders into action. In various ways they are seeking to convince the President that the unfortunate business effect of his fireside chat and his call of an extraordinary session of congress to pass further restrictive legislation

WIFE STRICKEN; WRITES PLEA TO ABDUCTOR GANG

Sets Deadline for Victim's Return.

Mrs. Charles S. Ross, whose husband was kidnaped Sept. 25, warned his captors yesterday that his release must be accomplished by 8 a. m. tomorrow. In the event the ultimatum is disregarded, she indicated, federal and state investigators will turn the full force of their efforts to running down the kidnapers, ending a truce granted for ransom negotiations.

The warning was given in a formal written statement. In it Mrs. Ross asserted she had met all the kidnapers' demands but avoided a direct statement as to whether ransom money actually has been paid. She added that federal agents and policemen had coöperated by leaving the coast clear for ransom negotiations. She intimated that the kidnapers had not kept faith, and added the doubt that Ross is alive.

Mrs. Ross Is Ill.

Edmund S. Cummings Jr., legal representative of Mrs. Ross, handed the statement to reporters in the lobby of the apartment hotel at 2912 Commonwealth avenue, where she resides.

"My client is ill, under the care of a physician," said the lawyer. "I cannot amplify her message in any way. You will have to draw your own conclusions."

Makes Final Appeal.

The statement in full follows:

"I, Mrs. Ross, wish to make a final appeal to the seemingly heartless individuals who have taken and are holding my husband, Charles S. Ross.

"It has been three weeks since my husband was taken and insofar as we have been able, we have agreed to and met all demands of the persons holding my husband. His health has undoubtedly suffered by his long detention. We have met the demands as we believe, in full, and in accordance with our wishes all law enforcement officers to date have desisted in their actions, to afford ample opportunity for the persons in question to return Mr. Ross to his home. The persons have been free to contact me at all times in the past.

"I implore those responsible to free my husband so that he may be restored to his home, and in order that he may receive the medical treatment I know he requires.

Pledges Vigorous Hunt.

"Unless my husband is released and restored to his home by 8 a. m. Tuesday, Oct. 19, I will request all law enforcement officers to proceed with a vigorous effort to locate and punish those responsible for the disappearance of Mr. Ross. Due to the long absence, I believe those responsible are unable to deliver my husband at this time.

"I again implore and beseech those holding my husband to show me the consideration I have shown them, and arrange for the return of Mr. Ross not later than 8 a. m. Tuesday, Oct. 19, 1937.

[Signed] "Mrs. Charles S. Ross."

Puzzled by Statement.

Some of those who worked in the early stages of the Ross investigation were frankly puzzled by the statement. Did it mean that the ransom had been paid and that the kidnapers after getting it had failed to carry out their part of the bargain?

The investigators considered this but also held that the message might contain a code informing the men holding Ross that their demands would be met. Their best guess, however, was that negotiations had been started and were abruptly broken off by the kidnapers. Detectives thought it possible that Mrs. Ross, despairing of getting into communication with the gang again, had set the deadline as the last desperate hope of obtaining Ross' return alive.

"It may mean," said one of the investigators, "that the kidnapers can get money for Ross now, but that they won't have a chance after Tuesday morning."

$100,000 Demand Reported.

Until yesterday there had been no intimation that any ransom demand traceable to the actual kidnapers had been received. Mrs. Ross and the federal agents assigned to the case have dodged comment on this. From authoritative sources, however, it

'Dictator's' Troops Rule Race Track

THE SAME OLD DECOYS

Impeachment of Governor Is Threatened

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pawtucket, R. I., Oct. 17.—[Special.]—The iron fist of dictatorship under Gov. Robert E. [Rule or Ruin] Quinn closed more tightly than ever on this tiny state tonight. Martial law was in effect at the rich and popular Narragansett horse racing track.

The arrow indicates location of Narragansett racing plant.

The bayonets of 300 National Guardsmen bristled for a mile in all directions around the plant which the governor has proclaimed to be "in a state of insurrection." The track, under the gubernatorial edict, will not open for its scheduled fall meet tomorrow unless the managing director and the governor's bitter political foe, Walter E. O'Hara, resigns or is summarily tossed out by the racing association. O'Hara refuses to budge.

Politics Back of Controversy.

Political domination of the state is the real root of the controversy between these two men, both of whom lead factions of the Democratic party. Quinn has built his dictatorship along the pattern laid down by the late Huey Long of Louisiana and will brook interference from no one. He has whipped the legislature into submission and increased his forces as each new federal bureau in Washington sent hundreds of pay rollers swarming into the state.

The governor issued his proclamation yesterday after the state Supreme court twice had decided ouster orders in favor of O'Hara. Defying the court, Gov. Quinn ordered out the troops, charging O'Hara had imported thugs, gangsters, and racketeers "to kill and bump off" the governor and other public officials.

Leader of Court Purge.

The irony of the situation is that Quinn steered through the legislature the purge of the Supreme court in 1935 and its subsequent packing with justices of the same kidney as Theodore Francis Green, then governor and now United States senator. It was after this coup that the local Democratic organization fell to quarreling over spoils and patronage.

Gov. Quinn previously had acted through the state racing commission in his efforts to eliminate O'Hara. The commission ordered the track's racing association to remove O'Hara, but the Supreme court quashed the

CHINESE FLYERS RAIN BOMBS ON JAPANESE FLEET

ROME—Fascist officials express belief efforts to recall foreign volunteers from Spain have a chance to succeed. Italy to co-operate with London committee. Page 2.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 18 [Monday.]—(AP)—Under a cold, clear moon just before dawn today the Chinese air force unleashed its heaviest onslaught against the concentrated Japanese positions at Shanghai since the beginning of the war in mid-August.

Low flying Chinese planes roared over Shanghai in successive waves, raining bombs on the lower Whangpoo river area where the majority of Japan's fleet rode at anchor and the Japanese airfield beyond the eastern borders of the international settlement.

Japanese warship batteries and anti-aircraft emplacements rocked the city with furious fusillades in an effort to beat off the raiders.

Steel Hits Foreign Area.

Shanghai was showered with shell fragments, steel falling over the entire international settlement. They spattered against the pavements and rattled against the walls of many buildings in downtown Shanghai.

The detonations of at least 30 bombs came in quick succession. They seemed to fall in the areas of heaviest Japanese concentrations. Great flashes of flame illuminated the skies east of the city.

Throughout the raids the flagship of the United States Asiatic fleet, the cruiser Augusta, lay close by the Japanese fleet. Bullets and shell fragments churned the waters of the Whangpoo all about her. A great spotlight was turned on the stars and stripes flying from the Augusta's staf.

French Consulate Hit.

The French consulate on the waterfront was showered with shrapnel, as were nearby apartment buildings and offices.

The increasingly heavier Chinese raids gave substance to unconfirmed reports China was receiving renewed supplies of aircraft from Russia and France. The newly acquired craft were reported to be capable of tremendous speeds.

Throughout Sunday Japanese swept the thirty mile Chinese defense line stretching from the North station to the muddy Yangtze with intensified artillery fire as cover for a concerted drive on the Miaohang sector near the midpoint of the battle front.

The fiercest fighting of the battle for the city's approaches swirled about the tomb of "China's unknown soldier," dedicated to heroes who died fighting the Japanese at the typically thatched Chinese village of Miaohang in the "Shanghai war" of 1932. Both Chinese and Japanese casualties were said to be very heavy.

Continue Bombing of Chapel.

The battle began when the Japanese resumed their bombardment of the native Chapel quarter. Bomb fragments struck within 1,000 yards of the American and British defense sectors on the northern border of the international settlement.

The Japanese spearheads in the Miaohang sector, at tremendous sacrifice, gained a precarious footing at two or three vantage points on the north side of Woosung creek. Chinese counter-attacks, however, prevented sufficient reinforcements and munitions from crossing the hastily built pontoons for the Japanese to break through and attack strategic Tazang.

Japanese planes bombed Chinese concentrations and supply lines to the rear at Nanziang, Quinsan, Kashing and Soochow to prevent reinforcements and munitions moving up.

At Nanking the Chinese foreign office announced China's acceptance of the Belgian invitation to attend a conference at Brussels of the signatories of the nine power pact of Murder Jury Women Have Pleasant Time

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 17.—[Special.]—Lawyers, the judge, spectators and even Mrs. Anna Marie Hahn, the cool defendant in a murder trial, are, for the most part, resting on this summery Sabbath day, freshening up for tomorrow's ordeal in court. But the jury—eleven women and one man—is scorning rest and spending a busy day, packed with activity.

John Granda.

Only two of the women, Mrs. Alice Peters, of social prominence, and Mrs. Edna Clark, were too tired to go to church. The others went in two groups, and, happily, John Granda, the only man juror, went with the Catholics, and Fred Juergens, the alternate juror, went to Christ church [Episcopal] with the Protestant women.

Working Despite Strike.

After church, little Miss Georgie McDonald, 22 years old, a laundress who is putting her time to profitable use while a laundry strike is on, read a magazine, and some of the others wrote postcards home.

Mrs. Ann Roberts, comely young blonde, serving as special deputy, left her charges with Deputy Nettie Douglas to tell a reporter how things were going in the jury headquarters in the Metropole hotel.

"Mr. Granda did write a letter to his wife the other day, but the ladies write few letters," she said. "They'd rather talk or play monopoly or bingo.

Having Pleasant Time.

"The postcards written by the women to their families, all of which must be read by the deputies, hint at no unhappiness in serving their county so arduously.

"They mostly say 'having a pleasant time' or something like that," said Mrs. Roberts.

Mrs. Hahn is on trial, however, for the arsenic death of Jacob Wagner, who died last July 3.

FRED MAY NEVER HAVE HEARD OF ACHILLES, BUT PATROLMAN HAD

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 17.—(AP)—Like Achilles, Fred Stigley, 25 year old Negro, could blame his heel for his downfall today.

Stubbornly resisting arrest Stigley fought off one policeman after another when they tried to hold him for a trafic violation.

First he scuffled with Patrolman Clarence Carey, who momentarily subdued him with bystanders' aid. Next he broke out of a precinct station where he was delivered in a patrol wagon.

It was while doing some first class open field running just outside the station that Stigley finally gave in. Patrolman Earl Farmer shot him in the heel.

TEN YOUNGSTERS TO HAVE A YEAR WITHOUT 'DON'T'

New York, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Ten children from 3 to 5 years old are going to spend this winter in an infants' Utopia here. For three hours every day they will be turned loose in a big airy nursery to do as they please. No one will order them around, no one will punish them, no one will hurry them to eat, no one will nag them to do anything.

The ten youngsters, five boys and five girls, sons and daughters of college graduates, have been lent to Fordham university for a year's study in child psychology, the Rev. Walter G. Summers, psychology department head, announced today.

From 9 until 12 o'clock each morning the children will be kept in a preschool nursery operated according to the teachings of Dr. Charlotte Buhler of Vienna, expert in child psychology, and directed by Mrs. Emilie D. Schleemer. Students will watch the children through a one-way screen unobserved.

Youth Shot When He Kicks Way into Stranger's Home

Gerhardt Kasikowski, 18 years old, 2304 North Maplewood avenue, was shot in the back and critically wounded late last when he kicked his way into the home of Antone Kuriuk, 47 years old, 2228 North Leavitt street, mistaking it for the home of his sweetheart. Kuriuk, who had never seen the youth before, tried to fight him out of the house, and finally shot him. Kasikowski was taken to the Bridewell hospital.

Air Liner with 19 Aboard Is Long Overdue

Salt Lake City, Utah, Oct. 18 [Monday].—(AP)—A United Air Lines mainliner, carrying 16 passengers and a crew of three en route here from the east, was reported more than four hours overdue at 3 a. m. [central standard time] today. An official of the company, who declined to be quoted, said of the reports:

"I'm afraid it's true."

The plane, he said, reported at Rock Springs, Wyo., at 9:19 p. m., and was due in Salt Lake City at 10:50 p. m. [central standard time].

The official said the company was attempting to contact all stations between here and Rock Springs but that "there is not much that we can do."

Largest Plane in Fleet.

Airline officials here were unable immediately to give the names of passengers on the huge, twin-motored ship, largest in the company's fleet of trans-continental air liners. Airport officials lister Pilot Earl Woodgard, Co-pilot Adams, and Stewardess Derr as crew.

The plane, on a regular trip from Cheyenne, carried gas for eight hours' flight when it reported at Rock Springs, officials said.

An unconfirmed report stated residents of Evanston, Wyo., near the Utah-Wyoming line, heard a plane at about 12:30 a. m. [central standard time] today.

Searching Plane Sent Out.

A searching plane piloted by Werner Bunge with Albert Ball as copilot left Salt Lake City airport at 2:31 a. m. to search for the mainliner. An official said the searching ship, a twin-motored Boeing, reported at 3:27 a. m. It had found no trace of the missing ship.

The official said weather conditions over the Wasatch range, over which United planes pass from Cheyenne, were clearing up, although late last night they were covered with solid banks of clouds.

One official expressed doubt that the big ship had landed at any of three emergency fields between Rock Springs and the eastern slope of the Wasatch range.

Hope Not Given Up.

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 18 [Monday].—(AP)—Clyde M. Sharar, district trafic manager of United Air Lines, said here today he had "very little information" concerning a United Air Lines plane reported missing between Cheyenne, Wyo., and Salt Lake City, Utah. He added "we have not given up hope yet."

Reach Western Rail Head.

PEIPING, Oct. 17.—(AP)—A long-held Japanese dream came true today in the near zero cold of Northwest China when a mechanized column of Japan's Manchukuan garrison rolled into Paotowchen and ran up the flag of the rising sun over the farthest west station of the Peiping-Suiyuan railroad.

The Domei [Japanese] News agency described cavalry skirmishes at Sar-asti and Tengkou stations to the east before the stocky Nipponese warriors in fur caps and fur lined coats reached the western railhead of the road which drains the wealth of all Inner Mongolia.

Paotowchen (1), farthest west station of the Peiping-Suiyuan railroad, captured by Japan's Manchukuan garrison. Kweisui (2), capital of Suiyuan province.

The capture of Paotowchen was believed to have eliminated the last concerted Chinese resistance in Suiyuan province. Kweisui, the provincial capital, fell to the Japanese last Thursday.

All of the Peiping-Suiyuan railroad has been captured and its control will enable the Manchukuan garrison to establish the long desired buffer zone between North China and Manchukuo on the one side and Soviet Russia's sphere of influence in Outer Mongolia on the other.

Japanese forces driving south through North Shansi today captured three villages near Hsinhsien, forty miles north of Taiyuanfu, capital of the province. This column is racing toward Taiyuanfu in an effort to capture it before other Japanese army units arrive from Hopei province through Niangtzekwan Pass.

100 Civilians Killed.

Fresh progress was reported for the strong Japanese column driving through southern Hopei toward the Yellow river. An armored train reached Hantan, thirty-five miles north of the Hopei-Honan border.

The right Chinese wing, originally entrenched fifty miles east of Changteh, was still unaccounted for. Changteh is ten miles south of the Hopei-Honan border and, according to belated foreign reports, was bombed Oct. 14 by Japanese planes. More than 100 civilians were reported killed.

On the northeastern front along the Tientsin-Pukow railroad a heavy engagement was reported at Yuchensung, where the two forces are face to face across the Tuhai river with the Chinese defending the south bank, thirty miles north of Tsinan, capital of Shantung province. Panic seized the inhabitants of Tsinan, who started a mad flight to the country with whatever possessions they could clutch.

400,000 BATTLE FOR CONTROL OF SARAGOSSA AREA

Loyalists Strike to Lift Pressure on Gijon.

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Oct. 17.—(AP)—A government offensive in the Saragossa sector in northeastern Spain today brought on one of the bitterest battles of the civil war. Military dispatches said 400,000 men were engaged.

The government struck powerfully at Saragossa, rebel stronghold 175 miles northeast of Madrid.

Strong tank and aviation forces supported the attack of massed government infantry toward Saragossa. One purpose apparently was to relieve the increasing rebel pressure in Asturias, northwestern Spain, where the advance against Gijon continued.

Follow Ebro River Valley.

The government drive opened Saturday, continued throughout the night and today. Government troops advancing northwest along the river Ebro encountered head-on resistance of rebel forces at Fuentes de Ebro, on the right bank of the Ebro 22 miles southeast of Saragossa.

Fuentes de Ebro is almost surrounded by government forces. Supplies can be sent there only by boats which drift down the river at night. Last night government tanks attacked the village by moonlight, but were unable to cut communications completely, as ground to the north of the village was flooded and tanks could not advance on that side.

Government planes swooped over the rebel lines, bombing troop concentrations and depots, while government tanks plowed into the rebel ranks. One government air squadron bombed an enemy military post at Burgo de Ebro, ten miles southeast of Saragossa, while another attacked anti-aircraft batteries only six miles south of that city.

Wreck Rebel Airdrome.

Two days ago loyalist war planes inflicted heavy damage on Saragossa's airdrome at Garrapinillos. The attack came at a time when seventy rebel planes were drawn up ready for a take off.

The government planes arrived at timed intervals. Ten rebels pursuit planes rose to chase the first bombers but at the same time a flight of fast government pursuit planes swooped down and shot the rebels down before they were 600 feet off the ground.

Anti-aircraft and machine guns functioned at first, but loyalist planes bombed them out of action and the airdrome virtually was defenseless. Government planes then flew low and reported that thirty-five rebel planes were destroyed.

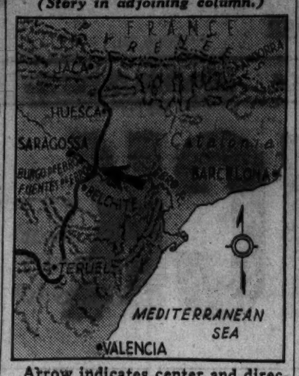
A rebel army, aided by heavy reenforcements, gained important ground on the Aranjuez front, about twenty-five miles south of Madrid. Government officers said the battle was the fiercest on any of the fronts around Madrid since the battle for Brunete, west of the capital, in July. Government officers said greater masses of infantry than ever before on this front were employed.

On the Asturian front in northwestern Spain a rebel communique said a continued drive on Gijon had resulted in "one of our most brilliant days of victory."

The rebel régime today moved to assume control of all mining property in its territory. A decree issued at Salamanca in the name of Gen. Francisco Franco annulled all transactions in mining property, bonds, machinery or other equipment carried out since July 18, 1936, when the civil war began.

PERIL SARAGOSSA

(Story in adjoining column.)



Arrow indicates center and direction of loyalist offensive on Aragon front in northeastern Spain. Bitter battles along the front involve 400,000 men. A government air squadron yesterday heavily bombed rebel concentrations and defenses around Burgo de Ebro.

EXPECT PREMIER'S VISIT TO TIGHTEN GRECO-TURK TIES

ATHENS, Greece, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Gen. John Metaxas, premier of Greece, was bound for Turkey today on a visit which is expected to tighten Turkish-Greek political and economic coöperation.

Metaxas sailed late yesterday aboard the Greek cruiser Averoff. He was expected to arrive at Ankara, capital of Turkey, tomorrow for conferences lasting five days with President Kemal Ataturk and Prime Minister Jalal Bayar. The trip is officially described as a courtesy visit in response to the visit of Ismet Inonu, then Turkish prime minister.

U. S. WIFE BEATEN WITH CLUBS IN JAPANESE CITY

TOKIO, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Unidentified assailants clubbed and seriously injured an American woman, Mrs. Steven Davies, near the Italian consulate in Yokohama tonight. She was removed to a hospital there. The motive for the attack was not learned. Her purse was untouched. Mrs. Davies was unescorted. Her husband, an employé of the Standard Oil company, is ill in a hospital.

Expects Further Progress at London Talks.

BULLETIN.

NAPLES, Italy, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Two thousand more Italian troops embarked for Libya today aboard the steamer Toscana. This reinforcement will make the total of the Italian garrison in the north African colony more than 37,000. Large contingents have left Italy for Libya in the last week.

ROME, Oct. 17.—(AP)—A high official of the Italian government declared today that efforts to recall foreign volunteers from the Spanish civil war now have a chance to succeed. He asserted Italy was ready to coöperate with other powers in these efforts, hitherto sponsored chiefly by Spain and France.

This official intimated that the way would be paved for settlement of the larger problem troubling Europe—the struggle of Britain, France, and Italy for power in the Mediterranean—if the twenty-seven nation nonintervention committee is able to clear up the danger of war spreading from Spain.

He recalled that several attempts of Britain and Italy to strike a bargain concerning their relative naval strength in the Mediterranean had been brought to nothing by disputes over intervention in Spain.

Will Confer with British.

The Italian official said that if volunteers were withdrawn Anglo-Italian negotiations announced some weeks ago as in the offing, could begin soon.

Italy's immediate acceptance—at London Saturday—of Britain's proposal to withdraw a small number of troops from Spain was cited as evidence of Il Duce's good will in desiring to reach a settlement.

[In the nonintervention subcommittee session Saturday Italy offered to withdraw part of her volunteers with the rebel armies provided withdrawals were "in equal numbers on both sides."]

The whole European atmosphere, in the Italian official view, has been improved by the willingness of Britain and France to accept the insistence of Italy and Germany that the volunteer question be tackled by the nonintervention committee instead of by special conference, such as Britain and France earlier proposed.

Avoid Russian Filibuster.

Italy also was favorably impressed by France not insisting on fixing a time limit on the committee's efforts to find a settlement. Setting a limit, the Italian official said, would have meant failure "because Russia would have seen to it that a decision was not reached" within the limit.

Other officials said Italy would urge a return to proposals advanced by Britain in July and August when the London subcommittee reconvenes Tuesday. These proposals called for:

1. Restoration of effective international control over the flow of men and arms into Spain.
2. Recognition of belligerent rights for both Spanish factions.
3. Recall of volunteers.

Crisis Danger Lessens.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Definite abatement of the Spanish civil war crisis was predicted tonight as the result of diplomatic developments over the week-end. Confidence was expressed that the meeting of the "hands off Spain" subcommittee Tuesday would see progress toward a settlement.

In London and Paris it was said Britain and France were equally ready to grant belligerent rights to both factions in the Spanish conflict.

The problem before the subcommittee Tuesday boils down to how many "token" volunteers shall be recalled from Spain before belligerent rights are granted.

Observers expressed belief that with Britain, France, Italy, and Germany all ready to "resume liberty of action"—as their representatives have declared—Tuesday's meeting should see substantial concessions all around the conference table.

Britain, it was indicated, will press for withdrawal of five men from the rebel side for each volunteer called out from the government's ranks. This ratio was worked out on the British understanding that there are 100,000 foreigners fighting for the rebels and 20,000 for the Madrid-Valencia régime.

9 EXECUTED FOR ROBBING, BEATING SOVIET PEASANTS

Officials Accused of Being Pro-Polish Terrorists.

MOSCOW, Oct. 17.—(AP)—The execution of nine local officials of the Zhlobin district in the White Russian republic for plotting insurrection against the soviet régime in case of war with Poland and Germany was reported today by a Minsk newspaper.

The officials were convicted of organizing terrorism at the behest of the Polish intelligence service, raiding villages and robbing and beating peasants on collective farms.

Y. M. Lekherzak, former secretary of the regional communist party committee, who headed the list of accused officials, was quoted as confessing he was a Trotzkyist.

Five Sentenced in Azov.

"I was never a communist," the paper quoted him as saying. "I always disagreed with the general policy of the party particularly in the villages."

Five death sentences for destroying live stock and grain were reported from the province of Azov on the Black sea.

Sergei Sudin, acting soviet commissar of foreign trade, was removed from his post today, leaving that branch of the government without a chief, so far as is publicly known.

Some Courts Changing Policy.

Some soviet courts have begun punishing anti-soviet "wrecking" with longer prison sentences instead of the death penalty under a recently promulgated decree, according to reports in the provincial press.

The chairman of a district executive committee in an agricultural case has been sentenced to 15 years' imprisonment and two other officials to 10 years.

A lull in executions was indicated in other sections of the soviet union, with only one reported from western Siberia.

AMNESIA VICTIM IS IDENTIFIED BY MOTHER'S NOTE

The young man about 20 years old who was taken to the Woodlawn hospital last Tuesday apparently suffering from amnesia, was identified yesterday as Clyde Butler through a letter received by Dr. J. A. Cousins from Mrs. Mamie Butler of Las Cruces, N. M., who said she was his mother.

In her letter Mrs. Butler, a widow, said that for the last six years the youth had been under the care of another woman who was educating him. He suffered a nervous breakdown a year ago, she wrote, after graduating with honors from the Roswell, N. M. high school.

Both Dr. Cousins and hospital authorities became interested in the youth's plight because of his unusual intelligence. He speaks four languages.

LANDON TO TALK TO NATION ON AIR TUESDAY NIGHT

Topeka, Kas., Oct. 17.—(AP)—Alf M. Landon, Republican nominee for President in 1936, announced tonight he would speak to voters of the nation by radio Tuesday night on "certain questions of the day." His announcement, without explanatory comment, said:

"As the Republican standard bearer in the 1936 campaign I desire to call a nation-wide massmeeting over the radio at 8:30 to 9 o'clock [Chicago time], over the NBC blue network, Tuesday, Oct. 19.

"I wish to discuss with you certain questions of the day."

Landon said his address would be picked up by the network at Topeka.

CHILD'S CUSTODY AT STAKE TODAY IN COURT HEARING

Unwed Mother and Foster Parents Fight for Girl.

The final move to settle permanent custody of blue eyed Florence Ann Richter, 2½ years old, is expected today before Judge Edmund K. Jarecki with a hearing on a petition for adoption filed recently by Paul and Thelma Richter, 1917 South Christiana avenue, the foster parents.

Florence's real mother, Miss Della Staszkie, 18 years old, of White Cloud, Minn., wants the child, but has already lost one court battle for her custody.

Born in Richter Home.

Florence was born to Miss Staszkie in the Richter home, then at 6930 South Paulina street. Dr. John A. Rose, who figured in the recent Horst baby case, is alleged to have entered this one, too, by certifying the infant was born to Mrs. Richter.

Miss Staszkie, in a habeas corpus hearing before Judge Daniel P. Trude recently, testified that she went to the Richter home for the birth because she feared condemnation from her family and friends if it became known she was an unwed mother, and that she left the child with the Richters because she had no money.

Testifies Willingness.

She is willing and financially able to provide for Florence now, she told Judge Trude. The Richters, who have had the child since birth, testified that Miss Staszkie abandoned Florence, and in effect gave her to them, and that they love her as their own daughter.

Judge Trude ended the hearing on Oct. 14 by denying Miss Staszkie's plea on the ground that she had shown no interest in her child until too late. He awarded custody to the Richters.

BRITONS DEMAND BOYCOTT AGAINST JAPAN AT RALLY

LONDON, Oct. 17.—(AP)—A massmeeting of 10,000 persons in Trafalgar Square today demanded an economic boycott against Japan because of her invasion of China. Speakers disclosed a boycott movement already was under way. The demonstration was organized by the London Labor party and the London trades council. Walter Green, Labor member of parliament, said the Royal Arsenal Coöperative society had decided to buy no more goods from Japan.

GOVERNOR OF R. I. IS FACING THREAT OF IMPEACHMENT

He Uses Troops to Block Track Opening.

order. Then the commission suspended the track's license and the court squelched this action. Martial law was the only recourse left to the governor and he did not hesitate.

Threat of Impeachment Made.

The O'Hara forces tonight decided to try a little ousting on their own hook. Harry F. Curvin, Democratic majority leader in the house and an opponent of Quinn, released a letter demanding impeachment of the governor. He declared that Quinn is illegally invading Pawtucket and East Providence, the two townships in which the race track lies.

The struggle for power, the court packing, calling out of the militia and other features of this struggle remind the observer of chapters in Sinclair Lewis' "It Can't Happen Here," a novel of an imaginary dictatorship in the United States.

The scene at the track is fantastic, bizarre, and grim. The track looks like a concentration camp in Nazi Germany. Sentries, with tin trench helmets strapped under their chins, khaki overcoats buttoned up high, the collars turned up to keep out the nipping cold, and riot clubs hanging from their belts, are guarding all roadsides leading to the park and all entrances into the track.

Moon and Lights Illuminate Plant.

The dark oval of the track, the clubhouse with its buff walls, and the silent grandstands were bathed in the brilliant light of a full moon. And yet the National Guard officers turned on the powerful floodlights in the parking spaces in order to spot any one entering this area of "insurrection."

O'Hara remained secluded in his penthouse high above the stands in conference with his aides until a late hour.

Raymond J. McMahon, counsel for the racing association, announced that the O'Hara management would try to operate the track tomorrow if it were physically possible. Pari mutuel men and others of the track's 1,000 employés have been ordered to report.

A sleek black limousine with a District of Columbia license was parked in front of the clubhouse. It was reported that O'Hara was burning up the wires to Washington, for he boasts of having the ear of the Roosevelt administration as well as Quinn. O'Hara, it was recalled, is seeking congressional sanction for horse race betting in the District of Columbia and is said to have lease on a desirable site.

Field headquarters for the National Guard were established in a small white house about a half mile from the track. The National Guard officers commandeered this residence, which is the home of E. P. McClain, general superintendent of the track.

Adjt. Gen. Herbert R. Dean ordered the mobilization of the troops under the edict of the governor who is, by statute, commander in chief of Rhode Island's troops and its "navy," the latter consisting of a small police boat.

It is believed that the track could not open tomorrow if the governor's order were suddenly lifted. For one thing, equipment customarily shipped around to the three New England tracks—Narragansett, Suffolk Downs, near Boston, and Rockingham, near Salem, N. H., is not here.

MAY BE IMPEACHED

[Associated Press Wirephotos.]

Gov. Robert E. Quinn, who ordered martial law to keep Narragansett race track closed at Providence, R. I., yesterday was threatened with impeachment by Police Marshal Harry F. Curvin of Pawtucket.

Walter E. O'Hara, president of the racing plant company and bitter political foe of the governor, held a conference with his attorney. They laid plans for action against the governor's order. The race track was to have opened today.

MISS, 9, EXTENDS HELPING HAND; $5 PRIZE FALLS IN IT

Comforts a Lost Child Till Mother Returns.

BY DORIS LOCKERMAN.

A tiny girl with mussed flaxen hair and a wrinkled orange dress was lost in the toy section of a downtown department store Saturday. Around her milled dozens of pushing, determined people who did not notice her disconsolate little figure, or her tear wet face as she stood bewildered in an arched doorway.

None saw her but another little girl—a child with brown curls who might have been lost herself once. She understood.

Brings Hope and Comfort.

"What's the matter honey?" she questioned gently, leaning down. "Do you want your mother?"

The towsled blonde head bobbed, and the misty blue eyes looked hopefully into the brave blue ones above her.

"My mommie left me." She began sobbing again, leaning against the sturdy arms that comforted her. "I want my mommie."

"Don't cry, honey," soothed her protector. "Your mother hasn't really left you. Besides I'll stay with you. I tell you what—let's make a house out of these blocks."

And in a moment, just as a proud house was taking shape, Honey's mother returned. There were smiles on the smudged face turned to greet her. As mother and child left together, neither of them turned to see the waved good-by that followed them.

And More to Come.

That was enough for THE TRIBUNE'S politeness reporter, but there was more.

Dolores, for that was the helpful child's name—Dolores McDonnell, clasping the small bag she carried tightly, skipped straight to the playroom on the same floor. She looked around carefully, searching for some one.

"Dolores!" called a third small girl, who came running up. "What did you bring me?"

"Shhh, I brought you candy. And a hair ribbon. Now be a good girl and play on the chute. I'll stand beside you."

Gives Up Fun for Others.

Again Dolores was the friend in need. Foregoing her own pleasure, she stood beside the slide, policing the long line of children waiting their turn. Only once did she need to show a firm hand.

"No, you don't" she warned a husky boy in knickers, who threatened to break the line. "You keep your place. They could all do that, but they wouldn't all get their turn. You stay back." He stayed.

To Dolores, whose poise belies her 9 years, was awarded THE TRIBUNE'S $5.00 politeness prize. She lives with her parents and two sisters at 1736 North Nagle avenue. You may have seen her dancing at the Enchanted Island at A Century of Progress Exposition when she was 5 years old.

GIRL HITCH-HIKERS HELD.

Burlington, Ia., Oct. 17.—[Special.]—Evelyn Martin, 21 years old, and Elsie Sherrill, 19, both of Cincinnati, O., were held by Sheriff Harry Hunt today after an automobile belonging to Hugh Burke, 68, a farmer, crashed into a ditch. The girls were hitch-hiking to Sherman, Tex., when Burke picked them up and invited them to his home for the night. Burke said they took the car without his consent.

DIETERICH CALLS HORNER ATTACK PRESUMPTUOUS

In a brief reply to Gov. Horner's declaration that he cannot win renomination if he seeks it, Senator William H. Dieterich issued a statement yesterday describing the governor as presumptuous.

"If I should become a candidate," it read, "I am willing to be judged by my record of loyalty both to my party and to my friends. As to the governor opposing me in the primary, that is his privilege. As to his statement concerning the attitude of the Democracy of Illinois, that is presumptuous.

"I may have offended politically against individuals, but never have I offended against the Democracy. I have always been loyal to Democratic organization, to the will of the Democratic voters as expressed in the primaries, and to the Democratic administration charged with responsibility of government."

SEE TENNESSEE IN FALL BEAUTY, VISITORS URGED

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 17.—[Special.]—Tennessee is known throughout the civilized world as the state of the "monkey trial," the great battle over the teaching of evolution which was fought at Dayton, Tenn., in 1925, with the late William Jennings Bryan and Clarence Darrow as the spokesmen, respectively, for the fundamentalists in religion and the scientific viewpoint.

Gov. G. W. Browning.

That this state has other claims to attention besides fundamentalists, child marriages, moonshine, mountaineers and TVA, is the reason, perhaps, why Gov. Gordon W. Browning, his conservation department and the automobile clubs, have organized a tour of 1,100 miles through the state, beginning today.

From Portland to Portland.

One hundred and thirty representatives of newspapers and automobile clubs from Portland, Me., to Portland, Ore., reported today at a breakfast here, where they heard an address on the glories of Tennessee and prepared to embark on a week's journey which will take them from the bottom lands of the Mississippi on the west, through the rich bluegrass central plains, the Cumberland plateau, the battlefields of the civil war around Chattanooga, and the Great Smoky mountains and Norris dam region around Knoxville.

To the late Bob Taylor, says the Morning Tennesseean, "Tennessee was a beautiful maiden who pillowed her head on the mountain pines while her toes wiggled lazily in the waters of the Mississippi. While winds tangled her silken tresses in the rhododendron of the rugged peaks, her arms stretched gracefully in the firmament where her fingers tickled the stars of the milky way."

Sounds Like Fort Worth.

This sounds like the Fort Worth, Tex., boosters, but it is pointed out in a more factual manner that this is the time for making sorghum, which is worth a song or two, that it is corn gathering time and time to hunt for hickory nuts.

As a beginning the tourists were taken around this "Athens of America," so-called because of its beautiful Parthenon and war memorial buildings on the hill beside the historic old state capitol.

Typical old southern homes of the suburban sections and the Hermitage, the home of Gen. Andrew Jackson, seventh President of the United States and hero of the battle of New Orleans, were thrown open to the visitors today. The simplicity, the dignity, the fine culture of the old south still live in these white pillared mansions.

Appears Livable Even Now.

The Ladies' Hermitage association takes care of the old Jackson home which is completely furnished and looks very livable even today. No telephone or radio bothered the general and his beloved wife, Rachael. There were no bathrooms either and it was a day's journey to town.

The visitors worshiped in the old Hermitage Presbyterian church, built in 1823 as the result of a gift from the general. They sang hymns to the accompaniment of the wheezy old organ, and sat on hard pine benches with a wood fire burning to keep off the autumn chill.

For a state which has a population less than that of the city of Chicago, its influence on national affairs has been large. It has had three Presidents of the United States, four secretaries of war, four postmasters general, an attorney general, a secretary of the treasury, a United States commissioner of education, three speakers of the United States house of representatives, four former associate justices of the Supreme court and one there at present, James C. McReynolds. Secretary of State Cordell Hull hails from Lebanon, Tenn. This was the home of Davy Crockett and Sam Davis, a confederate martyr, and is the home now of Sergt. Alvin C. York.

Gov. Browning had intended going on the tour or part of it, but may have to content himself with being host at a dinner in Nashville, for he is in the center of a big political fight.

SEE NO CHANGE IN CONDITION OF EDITOR LORIMER

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 17.—(AP)—The condition of George Horace Lorimer, retired editor of the Saturday Evening Post, who is critically ill at his home in suburban Wyncote, remained unchanged tonight, members of his family reported.

Lorimer, 69, has been ill with pneumonia since Thursday. Dr. Walter T. Annon, his personal physician, said he showed a slight improvement last night. He said both lungs were seriously affected.

The former magazine editor contracted a cold several weeks ago and later developed bronchitis, which was followed by pneumonia. He retired from editorship of the Post last January.

ATTICS' PURGE

By CALEB

SOMEWHERE in his writing, Arnold Bennett advised people to make a general clearance of all their possessions every seven years and start anew in the accumulation of things. Whether this was based on the theory that we are physically renewed every seven years—through a gradual changing process—I do not know. But there is some logic to his proposal. Most things most of us accumulate are not worth treasuring over long.

Attics often accumulate collections of magazines, old furniture, broken accessories and appliances, and a general debris of questionable value.

Not only our houses but our lives have attics. A stimulating and recurring sabbatical purge would rid the attics of our lives of indifferent things. Furniture, pictures, books, floor coverings, china, linens, bric-a-brac, and apparel, too good for the attics in our houses, may not be good enough for the figurative attics of our daily lives.

All things we possess might well be occasionally appraised in terms of whether they are worth possessing. Unless the frayed fringes of sentiment were clipped off our possessions before such an appraisal, the appraisal would be of little consequence.

There is a certain amount of adventure in refurnishing a room completely or refurbishing a wardrobe from the ground up. A lady over eighty years old who lives in a substantial home but who has no money to waste, completely redecorated, remodeled and almost entirely refurnished a downstairs room several years ago. The quality of youth persisting in her mind made this possible. Actually doing it helped further promote the quality of youthfulness she already possessed.

Not every one can afford to set aside old possessions. If every one who could, would do so intelligently, it would be a good thing for themselves and for society generally. What is given away or sold cheaply out of our homes does someone else good, and what is newly purchased means the products of labor moving and making way for additional products of labor.

I know a man who earns a substantial salary and his wife is wealthy. He wears $35 suits until they are threadbare. He buys them here—so they are very good and they wear very long. But clinging tenaciously to material things in order that unneeded money may be held for further un-needed increases is not the ultimate aim of the good life.

Arnold Bennett had an idea.

LINCOLN HIGHWAY MERELY A PAVED PIONEERS' TRAIL

91 Accidents in 105 Miles Since Jan. 1.

BY HAL FOUST.

The Tribune roadster, in a recent drive of 105 miles over Roosevelt road from Geneva to Fulton, visited the scenes of 91 automobile accidents since Jan. 1, each involving one or more deaths or personal injuries. Evidence was found of physical hazards which could be alleviated.

The national safety council and other such agencies are directing their attention to rural accidents because it is in the country that the motor fatality rate is showing its most rapid increase. In the last 12 years, deaths on the open road and in villages of less than 10,000 population increased 157 per cent while deaths in cities over 10,000 increased 27 per cent.

Faults Found in Road.

The safety organizations are inclined to concentrate their efforts on correcting faulty driving. However, on Roosevelt road, which is better known farther west as the Lincoln highway, The Tribune roadster found faults in the road which might be easier to correct than man's proneness to mistakes.

Two or three miles west of Geneva a double row of elms on the right-of-way bore scars of autos on their heavy trunks. The narrow dirt shoulders and deep ditches bordering the 18 foot slab obviously had helped cause the accidents. Furthermore, although more of these large growing varieties are being planted throughout the state, a motorist might prefer shrubbery to absorb impact rather than thick trees to jolt a car that has left the pavement.

Trafic Obscured at Corner.

Ten miles west of Geneva there is an intersection of Roosevelt road with the new routing of U. S. 30, a scene of five bloody crashes since Jan. 1. A four foot embankment which could easily be leveled shields the view of northbound from west bound trafic.

School houses are located along the highway, a location no safer for children than one abutting an unfenced railroad right of way. One of them, the Ward school, five miles east of De Kalb, is on a hill that limits the visibility of children walking the pavement to and from their homes.

In De Kalb, population 8,545, and 59 miles from the loop, the highway uses the main business street with curbs filled on both sides by hazardous angle parking. A local politician said that selfish retail merchants insisted upon this dangerous arrangement. A half block from the business center is a free city parking lot, and it is not patronized.

12 Miles of Winding Road.

Between Dixon and Sterling alone there have been three fatal accidents since Jan. 1, 16 involving personal injuries and 41 involving property damage. A narrow road with a heavy trafic winds in hill. for the 12 miles. It's not a highway; it's a hard surface on a pioneer trail. The state has not erected signs to advise drivers where it is dangerous to pass overtaken cars.

There are narrow bridges and narrow culverts on the old Lincoln highway across Illinois. Heavy concrete walls at the edges of the pavement are vicious. One of this type over the Elkhorn creek is on a horseshoe bend in the road west of Sterling.

There is no modern highway across northern Illinois offering maximum protection to motorists against their human weaknesses.

SAILBOAT CAPSIZES IN LAKE; FATHER AND SON TOWED TO SHORE

Hal Noelck.

Hal E. Noelck, 8158 Ellis avenue, a chemist, and his father, R. A. Noelck, were rescued yesterday after their sixteen foot sloop capsized and sank in the lake about one mile off 75th street. Both climbed into a dinghy carried on the boat and were towed to shore by a passing power boat. The Noelcks were sailing to South Chicago harbor to put up their boat for the winter when a gust of wind tipped it over in 25 feet of water. The boat sank

HIT-RUN DRIVER GIVES UP AFTER KILLING WOMAN

Companions on Fatal Ride Also Held.

A conscience stricken hit and run driver whose automobile struck and killed Mrs. Georgette Stockmer, 45 years old, 4011 North Damen avenue, at Western and Berteau avenues early yesterday, surrendered to North Racine avenue police last night. He is Nick Lanners, 24 years old, 1302 Chestnut street. He abandoned his car after the accident.

"I became panic stricken and ran," admitted Lanners to Policemen Ambrose Byrne and Clement Schroeder. "I couldn't avoid the accident, and I didn't mean to run away."

Companions in Custody.

With Lanners on the fatal ride were Robert Bobowski, 24 years old, 1108 North Hermitage avenue, a Russian dancer; Mrs. Sophie Galanski, 26 years old, 1422 Walton street, and Miss Irene Nastli, also 26 years old, 447 North Cicero avenue. Bobowski surrendered to Albany Park police last night, and Mrs. Galanski was Nastli was seized at her home. All, except Lanners, are held as material witnesses. Lanners is married.

Three persons were seriously injured last night in an accident at Pulaski road and 35th street attributed to slippery pavement. They are Miss Grace Bach, 22 years old, 4714 West 61st street; Robert Peterson, 23 years old, of Kenosha, a farmer, and Charles Belotti, 45 years old, 2247 North 72d court, Elmwood Park. All suffered possible skull fractures, and are in St. Anthony's hospital. Police said Belotti's car skidded and hit Peterson's sidewise. Peterson and Miss Bach were in one car.

Edward Dooley, 24 years old, of Lisle, Ill., was fatally injured in a collision at Ogden and Oak Park avenues, Berwyn. Dooley's brothers, Robert, 22, and John, 21, who were riding with him, and Frank Ptacek, 34, of 3119 West Cermak road, driver of the other car, were injured.

Killed by Hit-Run Car.

Robert J. Ligon, colored, 4016 Indiana avenue, was killed early yesterday by the automobile of a hit and run driver at Princeton avenue and 51st street. His body was identified by a brother-in-law, James Sitzbutler, colored, 6161 Indiana avenue.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 853 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 646 were killed in Chicago, where 18,088 were injured in the same period.

ARMY PLANE WILL CARRY PARALYSIS VICTIM, 16, HOME

Tulsa, Okla., Oct. 17.—(AP)—An army airplane, obtained through an appeal to President Roosevelt, will be used tomorrow to carry Dorothy Ruth Chastain, 16, an infantile paralysis victim, to her home at Wichita Falls, Tex.

Fitted with an "iron lung," the plane was to have arrived here today, but was forced down at Oklahoma City by bad weather.

After the girl was brought to a hospital here five weeks ago, Wichita Falls residents purchased the "lung" through popular subscription. When her physician announced she had improved sufficiently to return home friends appealed to Presient Roosevelt for the plane.

URGE PALESTINE BE MADE BRITISH CROWN COLONY

JERUSALEM, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Stern British measures prevented any recurrence of widespread violence in Palestine today while a movement to convert the strife torn Holy Land into a British crown colony offered a new solution to the trouble between Jews and Arabs.

The proposal took form in an application to the office of the Palestine attorney general to register an organization called "The Palestine Crown Colony association."

British authorities said Palestine was so quiet today that a party of British tourists visited the Mosque of Omar, where the grand mufti, spiritual leader of the Arabs, hid before he escaped from Palestine to Syria.

There were a few cases of violence, however. An Arab was shot to death in old Jerusalem by enemies who suspected him of being a police informer. A Jewish tailor was stabbed and seriously wounded while reading the Talmud.

These outbreaks followed isolated attacks against Jewish settlements last night.

RULING IN HEALY CUSTODY BATTLE EXPECTED TODAY

Judge Philip J. Finnegan is expected to rule today in the court battle between Thomas Dodd Healy, former assistant district attorney, and his divorced wife, Mrs. Julia Burbank of New York, over custody of their daughter, Patricia, 2 years old.

Mrs. Burbank was awarded the child at the time of their divorce, but Patricia for the last year has been with Healy and his mother. Healy, through Attorney Norman Becker, contends that if he is now forced to give up his daughter, Mrs. Burbank will take the child to New York and he will be unable to see her.

Last Friday Judge Finnegan instructed the couple to attempt to settle their differences outside of court but this has failed, the judge was informed yesterday.

ARKANSAS VOTES TODAY TO ELECT NEW SENATOR

Little Rock, Ark., Oct. 17.—(AP)—An internal fight among Arkansas Democrats over selection of a successor to the late Joe T. Robinson in the United States senate will reach its climax tomorrow at a special general election.

The candidates, Gov. Carl E. Bailey, 43 years old, and Rep. John E. Miller, 49, last night wound up a three weeks campaign, one of the briefest but bitterest in the state's history.

The designation of Bailey by the Democratic state committee as the party nominee split the ranks of the Democrats, and brought Miller into the race as an independent Democrat supported by Senator Hattie W. Caraway and four of his Democratic congressional colleagues. He also had the support of the widow of Senator Robinson.

The minority Republican party offered no candidate at an election expected to poll not more than 110,000 votes.

COURT SPOTLIGHT ON JUDGE BLACK IN SESSION TODAY

His Acts May Determine Course of Ouster Suit.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 17.—[Special.]—Justice Hugo L. Black, the former Ku Klux Klansman whom President Roosevelt appointed to the Supreme court, again will be the center of interest when the court meets at noon tomorrow.

The court is expected to announce at that time whether it will review a decision by the Circuit Court of Appeals upholding a dragnet subpena of telegrams by the Security and Exchange commission similar to the wholesale seizure of telegrams engineered by the senate lobby investigating committee of which Mr. Black was chairman.

The Circuit Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia pronounced these seizures a violation of law.

Black's Course a Question.

In the SEC case Frank J. Ryan and the Ryan Florida Oil corporation appealed from the Circuit court decision to the Supreme court. If a review is granted, the Supreme court will pass on the legality of practices identical with the practices of the Black committee, which were among the reasons advanced for disqualification of Black for judicial service.

If Black did not participate in deciding whether to review the SEC case, the fact will be announced by Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes.

Action May Open Way for Ouster.

If a review is refused and it appears Justice Black participated in this determination, or if a review is granted and the court, with Black participating, should uphold the telegram seizures, Ryan, as an injured party, could attack the legality of Black's status on the grounds of the petitions ruled out last week because the petitioners could not show a personal interest.

These grounds were that the appointment of Black was invalid because he was a member of the congress that increased the emoluments of retired Supreme court justices and because the retirement of Justice Willis Van Devanter did not create a vacancy.

President Roosevelt's Budget Problem

Democratic senate leaders, alarmed by the possibility of a Roosevelt depression because of recession in business, are urging the President to balance the budget. Failure of receipts to meet expenditures is indicated in this chart. The figures are for fiscal years (July 1 to the following June 30).

must be removed in the interest of the party.

As a result the public has been treated in succession to assurances by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau that the budget will be balanced next year and by Chairman Robert Doughton [D., N. C.] of the house ways and means committee that contemplated tax legislation will not increase the total amount of tax revenue.

Then Joseph P. Kennedy, chairman of the federal maritime commission and a veteran Wall street operator, rushed up to Hyde Park, talked with the President, and went away giving assurances. There is nothing the President wants to do so much as to balance the budget, said Kennedy, and "I think he has a very good chance of doing it."

That business is suffering from government repression Mr. Kennedy admitted by implication. Business is being hampered, he believes, by both the capital gains tax and the tax on undistributed earnings.

Of the undistributed earnings tax he said that "there is a way to get the income and still make it less onerous than under the present method." The capital gains tax, he said, "never got us much revenue anyway" and it probably could be revised to "bring in more revenue by encouraging business to invest more money." Taxation should be altered, he said, so as no longer "to paralyze the profit system."

It was notable, however, that none of these assurances to the business world came from the President himself.

COMMUNISTS READY TO AID ROOSEVELT, BROWDER DECLARES

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 17.—(AP)—Earl Browder, general secretary of the communist party in America, today called for "a new political instrument to defeat reactionism" and pledged communist support to President Roosevelt until that "instrument" could be devised.

"If President Roosevelt will let us work out things for ourselves," he said, "we will promise him 100 per cent unconditional support of the communist party."

Discussing the President's Chicago speech, Browder said:

"We have been the bitterest critic of Roosevelt's foreign policy in the past. His neutrality was unneutral and hypocritical and was designed to help Fascist nations in war. Now we are glad to see it changed."

PLACES SLAYER IN 'DEAD' BASKET AND FOILS MOB

St. Petersburg, Fla., Oct. 18 [Monday].—(AP)—Chief of Police E. D. Vaughn said early today J. O. Moses, Negro, sought in connection with the slaying of two policemen, was taken through a crowd in an undertaker's basket after he had been fatally wounded and captured.

Vaughn said Moses was found in a Negro dwelling last night and was shot when he resisted arrest. He said that fists flew as the crowd attempted to tear the cover from the basket. An appeal from Vaughn quieted the crowd and Moses was rushed away in an ambulance.

Patrolmen James A. Thornton and William G. Newberry were shot and killed at a circus here Saturday.

At midnight hundreds were filing past the basket at an undertaking establishment to view the wounded man, with police keeping a close watch. Early today Moses died.

Paper Company Watchman Dead in Mystery Shooting

Shot under mysterious circumstances, Frank Prusa, 68 years old, 1337 Cullerton street, was found last night in the plant of the Cromwell Paper company, 4801 South Whipple street, where he was employed as a watchman. It was thought death was due to natural causes until a bullet wound was found in the abdomen. Fifty feet from where Prusa was discovered dead police found his revolver, with one cartridge fired. Police believe it was an accident.

MILLIONS MORE FOR FINER TOBACCOS!

IS IT GOOD BUSINESS TO BUY COSTLIER TOBACCOS FOR CAMELS?

the answer is:

Camels are the Largest-Selling cigarette in America

"YOU CAN BET all the 12 years I've been playing ball with the New York Yankees, I've been careful about my nerves. Smoke? Sure! All I want to. My cigarette is Camel," says LOU GEHRIG, Baseball's Iron Man. "With Camels I don't worry about jangled nerves."

Smokers do find something choice . . . something distinctly different . . . in Camels. For the pleasure you get out of a cigarette depends on what's put in it. And in the case of Camels that means finer, costlier tobaccos!

THROUGH the years, Camel has consistently spent millions of dollars more for choice, ripe tobaccos!

That represents a way of doing business that smokers understand and appreciate. Millions of smokers have responded to the appeal of Camel's choice quality. Because of it, Camels have an attraction all their own!

It's a happy experience to have confidence in your cigarette...to know that you are getting the good things out of smoking that you hope for. The plain fact that Camel does spend millions of dollars more for ripe, more costly tobaccos appeals to the common sense of American men and women.

It is good business!

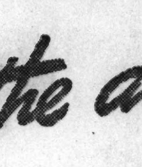
"FROM ANY ANGLE, Camel is the cigarette for yours truly. When I'm tired, I light a Camel and back to work I go with a 'lift' in energy," FRANK MULLADY, auto mechanic, says. "I smoke Camels right around the clock. Those Camel tobaccos sure hit home with me."

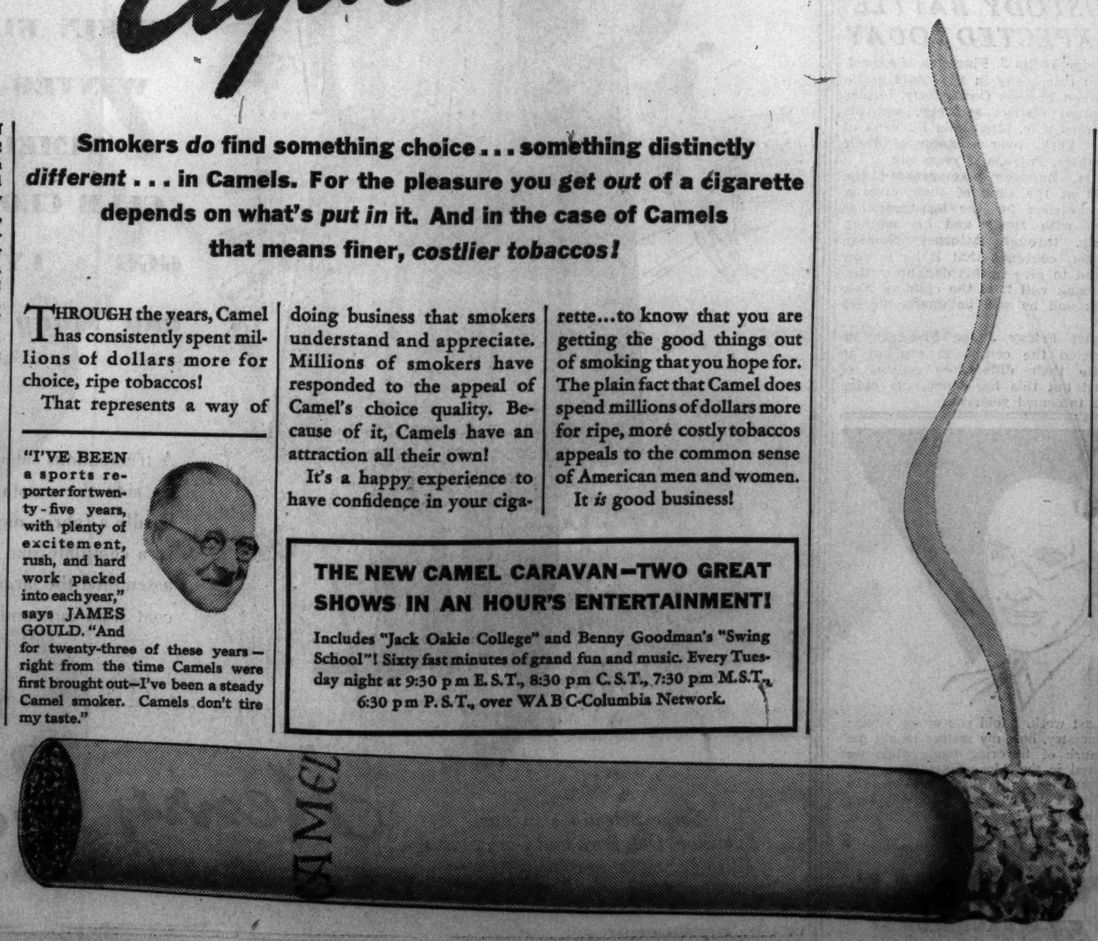


"I'VE BEEN a sports reporter for twenty-five years, with plenty of excitement, rush, and hard work packed into each year," says JAMES GOULD. "And for twenty-three of these years—right from the time Camels were first brought out—I've been a steady Camel smoker. Camels don't tire my taste."

"I GET A LIFT with a Camel when I'm tired. Camels have that mild flavor appeals to my sense of delicacy. Even after I've smoked steadily, I notice Camels leave no after-taste," remarks MAXINE HOLLEN, department store salesgirl. "When I'm all in, I get a 'lift' with a Camel in a jiffy."

THE NEW CAMEL CARAVAN—TWO GREAT SHOWS IN AN HOUR'S ENTERTAINMENT!

Includes "Jack Oakie College" and Benny Goodman's "Swing School"! Sixty fast minutes of grand fun and music. Every Tuesday night at 9:30 p m E. S. T., 8:30 p m C. S. T., 7:30 p m M. S. T., 6:30 p m P. S. T., over WABC-Columbia Network.



"CAMELS are the ideal cigarette for me. As a fashion designer accustomed to spending long night hours creating new styles, I've grown to depend on the mellow companionship Camels give me," says the internationally famous designer, RENEE MONTAGUE.

"EVEN during a strenuous golf schedule, I smoke Camels constantly without a sign of 'nerves.' I guess that the natural mildness of Camel cigarettes has a lot to do with that!" says HELEN HICKS, one of the world's great women golfers.

"I SMOKE Camels from breakfast to bedtime, and my nerves stay serene and unruffled. You see, I don't want to have those irritating little nervous habits," says window display expert, POLLY PETTIT.

"DUCK, SWORDFISH STEAK, and Boston cream pie—my favorites—aren't the most digestible foods. But I team up with Camels at mealtimes and my digestion does a swell job," says BRUCE WALLIS, college senior.

COSTLIER TOBACCOS IN A MATCHLESS BLEND

Camels are a matchless blend of finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic. The skillful blending of leaf with leaf brings out the full, delicate flavor and mildness of these choice tobaccos. That's why Camels have given more people more pleasure than any other cigarette.

MME. PERKINS AND PRESIDENT DISCUSS LABOR

Peace in Ranks Sought; Wage Bill Considered.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Oct. 17.—[Special.]—Reëstablishment of peace in faction torn ranks of labor, considered an essential step in the solution of economic ills responsible for the present market depression, held the attention of President Roosevelt here today.

Mr. Roosevelt sat with Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins and listened to her report on the coming "peace conference" in Washington of representatives of the American Federation of Labor and John L. Lewis' C. I. O. It is believed the administration will lend the meeting every encouragement in the hope peace will halt the drop in the price of securities. They conferred for three hours.

Expect Encouraging Word.

It was considered possible here tonight that the President may give an encouraging word to business in an effort to allay present fears and uncertainties, when he speaks on Wednesday at the dedication of the new federal reserve building in Washington. He has been urged to make a public pronouncement which would work toward restoration of business confidence.

He also may seize upon the opportunity to discuss the problems of labor and capital, which would be in the nature of a blessing upon the efforts to mediate the craft industrial union schism in the ranks of labor. And he may extend his blessing to the effort to bring about international peace at the Brussels conference of signatories to the nine power treaty which opens Oct. 30.

Cite Urgency of Parley.

The fact that Mr. Roosevelt let the conference disrupt a day he had hoped to set aside for rest, indicated that there was some urgency about the conference. Otherwise it could have been deferred until his return to the White House.

Means of forcing speedy congressional action on the Black-Connery wage and hour bill, which carries the name of Justice Hugo L. Black, were discussed.

In the morning, Mr. Roosevelt went to the family pew in ivy covered, gray stone St. James' Episcopal church, of which he is a vestryman. There he joined in the reading of the 120th Psalm of David, intoning with the congregation:

"I labor for peace but when I speak unto them thereof, they make ready to battle."

From this the Rev. Frank R. Wilson, pastor of the church, took his text and sermonized the President on the lack of confidence among nations in the values of peace.

FALLS; DIES 15 MONTHS LATER.

Complications developing from injuries incurred when she fell 15 months ago, resulted in the death yesterday at her home of Mrs. Mary Ryan, 83 years old, 1501 East 55th street.

VICTIM OF RIPPER

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]
RUTH M'MILLEN.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 17.—[Special.]—Park police tonight began a roundup of male loiterers in Rock Creek park as the first step in a drive to end annoyance of women there which led to the slashing of Miss Ruth McMillen, 19 year old George Washington university honor student yesterday. A sex maniac, who knifed and attacked Miss McMillen, is believed still at large.

Police were holding a house painter arrested near the scene of the attack, but they were inclined to doubt his connection with the crime. In his possession was found a painter's awl, which could have inflicted the wounds on Miss McMillen's neck and chest, but there was no blood on either awl or his clothing.

A suspect was taken early tonight to be confronted by Miss McMillen for identification. She still is confined to her bed at the home of an uncle with whom she lives and doctors refused to allow police to let her interview the suspect.

MRS. ROSS FEARS RANSOM TRICK BY ABDUCTION GANG

Appeal Sets Deadline for Husband's Release.

was learned last night that a note demanding a large sum [supposedly $100,000] reached Mrs. Ross no later than Sept. 30.

On the morning of that day, so the story goes, a gray haired man known to Mrs. Ross called at her apartment and handed her a letter in her husband's handwriting, and also the note bearing the kidnapers' demands. The supposition is that the man with gray hair is a friend of Ross, and that the kidnap victim suggested to his captors that they send their letters through him.

Second Letter Sent.

Several days later there was another caller, a woman, who also is said to have handed Mrs. Ross a letter. On another occasion a man and a woman, the man carrying a box, also visited the Ross apartment. One guess is that the box contained personal belongings of Ross, valuable as proving to his wife that the writers of the notes actually had him in their custody.

Ross, who is 72 years old, was seized in Wolf road near the entrance to the Westward Ho golf course. This is a short distance north of North avenue and some three miles southwest of Franklin Park. He is a well to do but not extremely wealthy retired business man and was formerly president of the George S. Carrington company, greeting card printers at 2732 Fullerton avenue.

He arose the morning of the 25th and told his wife he was going to the Edgewater Golf club, of which he was a member, to play bridge. This program was carried out and he left the club at 4:30 p. m. Driving to the vicinity of the Carrington plant he met Miss Florence Freihage, his former secretary, who is now an official of the company.

With Miss Freihage, who is 44 years old, he drove to Sycamore, where they had dinner in the Fargo hotel. After dinner Ross sat for a few minutes alone in the hotel lobby. There he was approached by a stranger in a brown cap. They spoke briefly. One supposition is that the capped man was the finger man for the kidnap gang.

At about 8 p. m. the couple started back for Chicago, driving east in route 64 [North avenue]. Shortly before they turned into Wolf road Ross remarked to his companion that he believed he was being followed, that the light of the pursuing car was constantly on his rear vision mirror.

"I think I'll pull over and let them by," he said.

As he drew aside the car behind darted forward and forced him off the concrete. Both cars stopped. From the second stepped one man, described by Miss Freihage as young and light haired. He had a pistol, and thrusting it at Ross, robbed him of his money and compelled him to leave his car and enter the other.

"The boss says this is a kidnaping," he said, "and wants you to come along."

Ross obeyed. The kidnaper soon returned to Miss Freihage, who pleaded with him to take her money also and to free Ross.

"He's wealthy, ain't he?" demanded the man. "Think he'd be good for a half million, or a quarter million?"

Miss Freihage responded that he had no such wealth. Taking $85 from her, the man departed. Ross was taken north in the kidnapers' car. He left the ignition keys of the Ross car with Miss Freihage, however, and she drove shortly afterward to Grand avenue and Wolf road and, from a filling station, notified the Franklin Park police.

300 PICKET RADIO STATION; ARREST PROMOTER, 4 AIDS

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 17.—[Special.]—Robert Noble, 39 years old, old age pension plan promoter, today was arrested on suspicion of grand theft, bunco, and extortion when police struggled through a tear gas barrage outside radio station KMTR. Four other persons in a throng of 300 demonstrators also were arrested.

Miss Maggie Dee, 50 years old, and Mrs. Vola Moore, 62, were taken into custody on charges of picketing illegally, resisting an officer, and parading without a permit. Ferdinand H. Kamps, 64, and Theodore Hall, 44, were booked on the same charge.

Police said Noble has been accepting money from 29,000 followers for two years. They explained the extortion booking by saying Noble told his audience that he wanted KMTR picketed every Sunday until the station gives him a half hour of free time on the air weekly to espouse his cause.

SNITE JR. LEAVES TODAY IN IRON LUNG FOR SOUTH

Hopes Florida Sunshine Will Aid Recovery.

One of the most remarkable travelers of the century will leave Chicago today for Miami Beach, Fla. He is Frederick B. Snite Jr., who for more than eighteen months has lain in an iron lung, a victim of infantile paralysis. His trip today will be his second long journey since he was stricken in Peiping, China, while on a world tour.

Frederick B. Snite Sr. and Mary Loretto Snite.

He will be accompanied by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick B. Snite of River Forest, his sister, Mary Loretto, a Notre Dame classmate, T. J. Dillon, two doctors, two male orderlies and seven nurses, who will spend the winter months with him in the Snite home in Miami Beach.

Arrange Trip Carefully.

Precise arrangements have been made for his safety and comfort enroute. A sterile ambulance, equipped with heavy-duty storage batteries to provide current for the heavy Drinker respirator in which he will travel, will carry the youth from Billings hospital to his special section of the Dixie Limited of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railway.

The rear railing and rear observation window of the car will be removed. Then the respirator, which is more than six feet long and almost four feet wide, will be rolled up a ramp to the car.

A second iron lung, an orthopedic Drinker model, and a small aluminum respirator, imported from Sweden, will be carried in the baggage car of the four-car section. The lighter respirator will be used when the youth reaches his winter home.

Special Care Ordered.

The club car, in which young Snite will be placed, has been transformed into a moving hospital. The train will leave Chicago at 2:15 p. m., fifteen minutes ahead of the regular section. The engineer of the train has been instructed to exercise special care in stopping and starting the train. Switching of the train at terminal points will be minimized. The train will arrive at Miami Beach at 7:30 a. m. Wednesday.

Young Snite, who is 27 years old, showed no anxiety yesterday as final preparations were made for the 1,497 mile journey. He talked eagerly of his plans, and expressed the hope that Florida's sunshine would help him regain his health.

Play Safe - "L" Ride the "L"

★ It's no fun driving on a slippery street : . . even with plenty of room around you. And here in Chicago you haven't got that room! The harder it rains the thicker the traffic and the slower it moves. You couldn't make time on a rainy day even if you were willing to risk trying it!

So leave street hazards behind you and take the Rapid Transit Lines . . . The Elevated Railroad System is unhampered by street traffic. It is unaffected by the weather. It gets you where you are going above the streets . . . out of tangled traffic and out of the rain and cold . . .

With its elevated tracks, its fast, comfortable service, its protected platforms, and its heated trains and stations, the "L" provides transportation that makes you independent of the weather. Sunshine or storm, day or night, you can depend upon the "L" to get you there speedily and in comfort. Not in almost half a century of service has the "L" ever been halted by a storm : : : not even by the worst blizzard in its history; when all other transportation was completely paralyzed.

5,383 trains every working day! Three trains a minute in and out of the Loop during the morning and evening rush hour periods! 82.15 miles of private right-of-way linking the residential and industrial sections together as a unit! These things make the "L" the backbone of Chicago transportation.

Take the "L" to office, store or factory tomorrow. Streak over jammed intersections instead of creeping through them. Travel in comfort : : : free from nervous tension and the irritations of frequent starts and stops. Relax. Read your paper. Ride above the slippery streets instead of on them. Play Safe —Ride the "L".

MARRIAGE TEST LAW IN EFFECT!

A new state law requires a couple to prove they are free from syphilis and gonorrhea before a wedding license can be obtained. With separate departments for men and women, and with men and women physicians in attendance, the Public Health Institute is especially well fitted to make the necessary tests. A thorough physical examination in a private room, including Wassermann, Kahn and Eagle blood tests, urinalysis and smears, costs $3.00 per person.

IT'S YOUR MOVE

in the national drive to stamp out the menace of venereal infections!

Protect yourself and your family against syphilis and gonorrhea by being examined by your physician or this responsible clinic—at once!

If you are a happily married man or woman, and are blessed with apparently healthy children, you are more than likely to say to yourself: "Why should I bother to be examined for venereal diseases?" The answer is that syphilis can readily be contracted innocently, and exist for many years without your knowledge!

Dr. Thomas Parran, Surgeon General of the United States Public Health Service, declares: "I estimate that half the victims of syphilis are innocently infected. The syphilis germ is no respecter of race, creed, color or social station. Moreover, the germ is a treacherous one—its victim may feel fit as a fiddle, with no evidence of illness!"

That is why Dr. Parran and all other outstanding health authorities are urging every married man and woman, as well as every unmarried person, to submit to an examination for venereal infections. For such an examination provides double protection—protection not only for the adult but for his or her children, born and unborn!

The danger to children!

Probably the most dreadful effects of syphilis and gonorrhea are those on helpless children. Syphilis is the principal cause of stillborn, deformed and feeble-minded infants, while gonorrhea may blind babies at birth!

Dr. Parran says that 5 out of every 6 pregnant women with untreated syphilis have dead or syphilitic babies. Only about one-fourth of all infants with untreated syphilis live longer than a year, and of these but few will reach maturity without tragic mental or physical complications.

However, the expectant mother with syphilis who is treated during pregnancy has 9 chances in 10 of giving birth to a healthy, normal baby! For this reason, every woman who anticipates a child should be examined for venereal diseases—preferably before the fifth month of pregnancy!

In addition to protecting children, a thorough venereal disease examination saves adults from such destructive results as heart disease, blindness, deafness, apoplexy, paralysis or insanity from untreated syphilis, and sterility, stricture, crippling rheumatism or serious prostate, bladder and other troubles from untreated gonorrhea. Therefore, don't put off being examined but go at once to your family physician or come to the Public Health Institute.

Examination costs $3.00

Organized by public-spirited citizens as a corporation "NOT-FOR-PROFIT" under the laws of the State of Illinois, the Public Health Institute offers attention for venereal infections at the lowest possible fees consistent with specialized treatment. An examination for syphilis and gonorrhea, including blood tests, urinalysis and smears, costs only $3.00, while some treatments for syphilis cost as little as $1.00 and some of those for gonorrhea still less!

Despite these low fees the Institute provides a friendly, personal service. Each patient is promptly attended in a private room, and to avoid embarrassment is known by a number rather than by name. The Institute's facilities are available to all, as even those who are temporarily pressed for funds can arrange to be cared for.

NOTE: Each of the Institute's men and women physicians is thoroughly trained in the superior methods resulting from giving over 4,500,000 examinations and treatments!

BRITAIN TO TAKE CENSUS ON WHAT IT COSTS TO LIVE

30,000 Workers' Families to Supply Data.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 17.—General living costs are shooting upwards so fast in Great Britain that the ministry of labor tomorrow will begin a census of the exact expenses of 30,000 families to provide accurate information on just what it costs to live.

Thirty thousand representative working class families—including low bracket white collar workers—have been selected to give detailed information on exactly what they spend during this week. All those selected have incomes of less than $1,250 a year.

By conducting this census, Ernest Brown, minister of labor, hopes to get a new cost-of-living "index" that will show just how well—or how badly—British workers' families can live on their incomes.

Cost of Living Traced.

Between July, 1933, and July, 1937, living costs rose 22 per cent while wages rose only about 12 per cent, the ministry of labor reported. Food costs on an average have risen 8½ per cent in the last year and they are still going up.

The wages of 1,250,000 workers still are governed by an index based on 1914 data, which was compiled after a study of 1,944 families' budgets. For July, 1914, the index is taken as 100, divided as follows: Food, 60; rent and taxes, 16; clothing, 12; fuel and light, 8, and other items, 4.

Questionnaires Confidential.

Questionnaires distributed to the 30,000 families selected through government employment offices will ask detailed information on every penny that is spent.

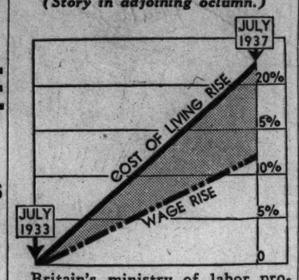
All questionnaires are confidential, but if a husband does not want his wife to know about the 10 shillings he lost on a dog race, or the money he paid for a round of drinks at the neighborhood pub, he can send that information to the ministry on a separate sheet, identified only by the number of his family's questionnaire.

Each family is to report not only, for example, how much the meat for dinner cost, but what kind of meat it was, and how much it weighed.

There is also space on the questionnaire for special items, such as gifts and fines. When the complete report is turned in, the ministry will pay the head of the family half a crown—62 cents.

British H. C. of L.

(Story in adjoining oclumn.)



Britain's ministry of labor provided the figures on which this chart is based. The rising cost of living has caused the government to begin a census looking toward a new index on which to base wages, which are now computed on a 1914 index.

Deer and Bear Hunters Upset Calm of Mountains

New York, Oct. 17 [Special].—The quiet Adirondacks reverberated with gun shots today when hunting enthusiasts were out in quest of bear and deer. At 7 o'clock on Friday morning the season officially got under way in the northern section of the state. First reports trickling back from the mountains say deer and bear are plentiful. There have been no major changes in the deer or bear laws. The deer must have at least three inches of horn and you need a special license to hunt them. Black bear must be one year or older.

ARGUE LEGALITY OF BOOKIE BETS IN COURT TODAY

Judge Sonsteby.

The question of the legality of betting on horses away from the race tracks will be argued today before Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court when attorneys representing 19 persons seized in a test raid made by State's Attorney Courtney's detectives will ask that the warants be quashed and the defendants discharged.

The raid was made on an elaborate handbook at 139 North Wabash avenue Sept. 16. The raiders took the names of 354 patrons, many of whom will be called as witnesses should the case go to trial.

Attorneys Abraham Marovitz and Harold Levy said they will base their argument on a motion to quash the warants on the recent opinion of Municipal Judge Eugene L. McGarry, who recently held that the law passed by the state legislature in 1927 permitting pari-mutuel betting within race track enclosures in effect repealed previous legislative enactments prohibiting betting on races.

Assistant State's Attorneys Gordon Nash and John S. Boyle, who supervised the raid, will be in court to oppose the defense motion.

VETERINARIAN'S HOME LOOTED.

Logansport, Ind., Oct. 17.—[Special.]—Burglars last night looted the home of Dr. S. O. Goodrich, Galveston veterinarian and former pastor, of a $125 fur coat, $20 wrist watch, a $5 gold bracelet and some cash.

TOM MANVILLE'S FIFTH WIFE WILL BE AN ACTRESS

Mamaroneck, N. Y., Oct. 17.—[Special.]—Tommy Manville, the gay asbestos heir, is just waiting for his wife No. 4, Marcelle Edwards, to get that Reno decree she expects on Oct. 29, and then he plans to marry Nina Pierson, American born revue charmer of European fame.

Manville gave a champagne party for Nina Pierson and twelve of his pals tonight at Bon Repos, his estate here, and told them all about it, but he hopes Marcelle won't learn about it and change her plans.

Beautiful blonde Nina said she certainly is going to be Mrs. Manville No. 5. She came back to New York from London for that purpose after receiving a cable from Tommy on Oct. 10, which said:

"Imperative you arrive Normandie."

Tommy was enthusiastic about the prospect of his fifth venture in matrimony, but he sensed one possible hurdle in his path to the altar—in case Marcelle found out.

MAY SOON BE BALD

True, he now has a good head of hair. But he knows that he is rapidly losing it, because each morning his comb and brush are filled with fallen hair. His scalp is covered with scaly, sticky dandruff, and it itches constantly. He has tried to ward off baldness by dousing his hair with miscellaneous "cure-all" lotions, but has concluded that they merely make his hair fall faster.

Unless he takes immediate steps to find out exactly what is causing his loss of hair, he'll surely soon be bald. Please tell him, for his sake, that Thomas effectively treats 1600 cases similar to his each day; that Thomas has helped a quarter-million other men to avoid baldness, and can help him, too.

A Thomas scalp specialist will gladly examine his scalp (without charge) and determine exactly which of the 14 local scalp disorders are attacking his hair-growing structure. The reliable, 17-year proved Thomas treatment will then be directed to overcoming those scalp troubles, and almost before he realizes it his abnormal hair-fall will stop; dandruff will disappear; and new hair will start to grow on the thin and bald spots. Why not come in TODAY for a free comprehensive scalp examination?

JOCKYING FOR POSITION.

The nature of the conflict which is blocking any substantial improvement in public transportation in Chicago is becoming abundantly clear. The Surface Lines and the elevated are maneuvering for position. There can no longer be any doubt that the primary object of each interest is to outjocky the other. The car riders find themselves at the moment in the position of forgotten men and women. Fortunately for them, however, the city government which represents the public interest is not without its coercive powers and the outlook is therefore far from hopeless.

So far as the Surface Lines are concerned, their immediate objective is the obtaining of a new franchise. The street car companies have cash reserves approaching 30 million dollars and a record of substantial earnings through the depression years. If the city grants the Surface Lines a permit to operate, extending over a period of years, the company will emerge from receivership in a strong position vis-à-vis the elevated, for the Rapid Transit Lines are not profitable and never have been.

With the granting of a new franchise the Surface Lines will have not only substantial cash resources but improved credit. The crying need of the elevated is for additional capital for modernization and expansion. Ordinary investors in all probability will not provide the money. The Surface Lines might do so, and if they did could dictate the terms on which the elevated would be acquired.

The Rapid Transit interests are therefore urging the city to insist upon a consolidation before a new surface franchise is granted. Once the city adopts that position, the Rapid Transit officials can sit back, comfortable in the knowledge that they hold the whip hand. If the Surface Lines then wish to get a new start in life they can do so only on terms of consolidation acceptable to the elevated.

Since the two transportation systems are acting in this way, the deadlock can be broken only by arbitration or coercion. Perhaps the appointment by the court or by joint agreement among the receivers of an authority with power to allocate values will solve the problem. If not, the city has coercive powers which may be employed. It has a financial weapon in the traction fund as well as a variety of governmental powers which can be brought to bear upon both recalcitrants.

LIFE SAVING TIME.

Some interesting figures supplied by the national safety council appeared in last Thursday's issue of THE TRIBUNE. In diagramatic form three automobiles, representing the average daylight trafic volume, produced about 40 per cent of the highway fatalities. A single automobile, representing the comparative amount of driving in hours of darkness, was responsible for 60 per cent of the total killings on our streets. From these statistics it may be adduced that if your car is involved in a night accident the chances that some one will be killed are six times as great as if the crash had occurred in daylight. With the advantage of vision or even anticipation of the impact we are enabled to make some frightened gesture or frantic leap that saves many lives.

The massacre clock confirms the statistics prepared by the safety council. During the eighteen full days that have intervened between Oct. 13 and that Sunday when the clocks were turned back to central time, forty-six persons were killed on Chicago streets. Last year when eastern standard time was continued through the month of October, only thirty-eight persons lost their lives in the corresponding period. This was merely a repetition of a record made last spring.

During the month of March, 1936, when eastern standard time prevailed, only fifty-six persons were killed on our streets, while in 1937 when we reverted to central time seventy-nine citizens lost their lives. We authorize the murder of fifty persons every time we set the clocks back.

Some day when some citizens become sufficiently alarmed at the terrible toll of the automobile, and others lose that strange hallucination that there is something sacred about standard railroad time, Chicago will adopt year-around eastern time to save those lives.

NEIGHBORLY CO-OPERATION.

The people of Illinois whose legislature has given them a law intended to protect them from the consequences of diseased marriage will be grateful to their neighbors in Indiana who are trying to prevent the defeat of the Illinois effort. Church groups in Lake county and the local medical association have issued resolutions condemning the practice of their county clerk and magistrates of issuing marriage licenses to Illinois couples who come into Lake county solely to evade the law of their own state. The medical association recommended the enactment of a law similar to ours in Indiana, and that would be the best means of stopping the invasion and would be a protection for the people of Indiana as well.

But meanwhile authorities in Indiana do not propose to wait for legislation and are showing an admirable initiative in searching existing Indiana law for means of correcting the present situation. Attorney General Omer S. Jackson holds that under an old law the bride-to-be must reside in the county a month before the issuance of a license, and a fine is fixed for violation. The Lake county prosecutor, Mr. Egan, will take action under this ruling. The county clerk, Dr. Sweigart, who does not seem to realize that he will earn the name Syphilis Sweigart, will resist and so will the county clerks of other border counties. Marrying justices will continue with their profitable trade with evaders. Together they represent, no doubt, considerable political influence in their communities, but we trust it will not prevail. The venereal plague is a dreadful affliction and is not confined by any state lines. The reputable citizens of Indiana are as concerned to check it as any other community, and Mr. Jackson and Mr. Egan should have their strong support.

This effort to defeat evasion of the Illinois health law we hope will contribute to the enactment of a similar law in Indiana. In Michigan a hygienic law will go into effect on Oct. 29. Wisconsin has had one but it needs strengthening. Throughout the nation the demand for measures against the venereal plague has grown widely and there is reason to hope that it will be conquered in this country as it has been in Scandinavia and to a marked extent in England.

FASCISM WITHOUT THE SHIRT.

Ceremonies centering on the royal family give the English all the national ritual and display they want or need. A coronation may be only once in a generation or a longer interval, but there are daily exhibitions constantly reminding the people of the splendors in which royalty has its being—the guard mount at Buckingham palace, the trooping of the colors, the ride through the city to open parliament, and the more sober hued appearance at corner stone layings, at half orphan asylums, at the races, and other places where the people gather and want to see the king, queen, and the family.

British fascism does not need a shirt. It can work with the apparel and the institutions which have served the purposes of government from the top for centuries. That is why the English can have a fascist control and deny it. The other day the duke of Kent's wife took several friends to dine at a restaurant and the police cleared the block of the taxicabs parked at the curb to give the night club duchess room for her car. The cabbies ejected from their place of business did some slow cruising around the neighborhood as a protest.

Neither Hitler nor Mussolini would have asked for a greater exhibition of their personal dignity and probably neither one would have been so abruptly inconsiderate. When Sir Oswald Mosley tries to compete with the traditional royal fascism by parading his fellows, he is not allowed to use uniforms, and on his most recent appearance the proletariat heaved stones at him and he was taken to the hospital with an injured eye. That proves nothing that the duchess of Kent does not disprove.

Mussolini discarded the royal family and put on his own theatricals. Hitler has no competition from royalty and as a substitute for what it had done in display he also produces his own show. The British don't need innovations. They stick to the old line.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain confessed the fascist program of his government to the Association of British Chambers of Commerce at Manchester when he admitted that the governmental control of industry set up in time of war had been growing ever since. It started in the public utilities, he said, went on into agriculture, took over the coal industry, and is now to be found in all production. Preferably, he said, it would lean heavily on voluntary coöperation, but government supervision was necessary, as Chamberlain hoped all would agree. Chamberlain's utterances were bland, as befits a system of fascism which is to appear with the iron hand as frequently as possible.

British fascism is more like the Japanese than the Italian or the German. After all, both the German and the Italian came up from the bottom. Mussolini was a furtive Socialist whose earlier ideas were poison to the kind of government he now has. Hitler was an obscure mystic who was seemingly headed for a complete failure in life when he was able to convey his enthusiasm to the German people. British fascism is a continuance of government from the top. It would make unnecessary trouble for itself if it tried to put Englishmen into uniforms and tell them they would enjoy themselves strutting around in great parades and in mass demonstrations in honor of a bundle of sticks tied around an ax or some symbol of the mystic exultation. That is not necessary.

CHAIRS OF LEISURE.

[Christian Science Monitor.]

What has become of the comfortable armchairs which used to stand invitingly on the sidewalk in front of most country stores and hotels? Mostly they have disappeared in the tempo of the motor age, but the felicity and fellowship for which they stood in the horse-and-buggy days are not forgotten. Tilted back against the wall in one of those rush bottomed, broad-armed chairs a man or boy could rest in the shade and watch the world go by. The custom was conducive to a serene outlook, to unhurried talk, to the spinning of yarns, and to discussion of 'most anything from village news to politics and the state of the nation.

If talk tapered down to the weather as the only topic, or if you lounged alone a while in one of the capacious chairs, you could always whittle. And when of a lazy summer afternoon even that was too much exertion you could pull your straw hat down over your eyes to keep the flies away and just doze until some one or something came along to waken you and your tilted chair came down on all four legs with a thud that brought you back to consciousness and conversation.

The decline of the amenity for which these chairs of leisure stood is appropriately lamented by the Chapel Hill [N. C.] Weekly: "The main street of our own village has for too long a time been bereft of these comforts that keep friendship alive and strong and make life in general more leisurely and agreeable."

Alas, if a chair or two stood outside the store today it would soon be deep in the dust of passing automobiles. Yet the Chapel Hill philosopher is right: Something besides the chairs went out with them. If they could bring back a measure of serene reflection and friendly leisure their return would perhaps be hailed by the present generation as well as the armchair brigade of yesterday. The old armchair might be a fitting concomitant of the new leisure.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

SO MANY THOUSANDS pass the Water Tower at Michigan and Chicago avenues, every day, that we wondered if there were some who didn't know why it was there before it became historically important as a building that survived the Chicago fire. Water never was pumped from the tower. It always came from the pumping station to the east. But when the tower was finished in 1869 the pumps that were the marvel of their day sent the water out in tremendous spurts whose force would have burst the mains. The tower itself was ornamental; the standpipe it housed, 138 feet high, tamed the spurts. The water was pumped through a very strong tube to the standpipe, in which it spouted sometimes as high as 100 feet. When it fell its force had been equalized, so that it sped through the mains in a powerful but steady stream. Historians say the pipe was 36 inches in diameter; water works men say 48. Although it had no top, the water never got high enough to spill over. There was another tower built later at 22d street and Ashland avenue. It was dismantled after it became obsolete, which was in the Nineties. The one at Michigan and Chicago avenues, having passed through the great fire that destroyed so much of the city and wrecked the pumping station, was preserved.

Dewitt Cregier, later to be mayor, was water works engineer when the tower was built. Its cupola was so high that lake captains used it to chart their course into Chicago. Sightseers with good hearts would climb the 231 steps (we counted) of the circular metal stairway for a view of the city. The big standpipe inside it was eventually taken out, and a cap was placed over the inlet. Now and then, as legends of the water works have it, some one would end his life by jumping from the tower, 165 feet high. One legend is that no fewer than seven persons did that, and that an eighth, who survived, still lives in Chicago. Officials took cognizance of the danger in 1915, when they closed the tower to the public. The big room at the base is now used by workmen as a place to keep their old shoes, raincoats, and tools. The windows, even those at the top, are kept surprisingly clean.

The quarry from which the stone for the tower was taken is exhausted. It was a very fine and expensive stone, that can't be matched. And so the water works people keep their ears to the ground. Whenever they hear that an old building of the same era is being wrecked they scurry right out. If it's of the right kind of stone they carry off every piece that they could possibly use in the tower. Then, when the tower needs repairs, they have some for patching. Although they have enough for quite a few patches now, they are learning which buildings to watch, and when they pass they nod their heads significantly and tell themselves rather gleefully that there's one can't last much longer.

Lighting the tower was quite a problem. When self-contained lights came in, it was easy to flood the outside with lights you couldn't see, but the stone was so rugged there were long, unsightly shadows. Every one said there was nothing to do about it. The water works men began experimenting, though, and found that colored lights didn't make such shadows as the white ones. They kept on trying until they discovered that if they'd combine red and amber lights they could almost eliminate the shadow. They did that. People who talk their way into the tower always marvel at the huge bell that looks as if it might have hung in the top years and years ago. The water works people never explain unless they have to, for they like to give their tower atmosphere. But if you pin them down they'll tell you: The Christmas Seal people used it in a display there several years ago and forgot to came back after it.

THE PRICE OF BEING A BIPED.

THERE is a type of backache which many patients complain of early in the morning. It may be intense enough to waken the victim at 5 or 6 o'clock. As soon as the sufferer is up and about, however, the symptom gradually passes away until by the middle of the morning it has vanished entirely. In contrast with this, another variety begins shortly after midday, increasing in power until by nightfall it may be agonizing.

In the first instance arthritis may be thought of, and an X-ray of the spine will usually disclose the basis of the trouble. The second kind is a typical postural disorder, and arises whenever the individual is on his feet for too long a period. The factors responsible are not disease but muscle strain, which appears because the body is not properly balanced. The patient probably neither stands nor walks correctly and thus an excess load is placed upon muscles which become fatigued [toward the end of the day] and hence cry out.

Many of these persons do not stand erect. Even when seated their attitude is utterly unhygienic. Every one has observed the tendency to "slump down" in an easy chair, the weight of the body resting upon the small of the back and the upper part of the shoulders rather than upon the pelvic bones and muscles. Father's favorite chair may bend the lower spine forward rather sharply and oblige certain vertebrae to take over the load which the hip bones are designed to carry.

The importance of the sacroiliac joint is known to every member of the arthritis club. Ordinarily little if any movement is possible in this location. Nevertheless, these spots may be subjected to strain—persistent and continuous enough to become annoying. If one is stooped slightly—in driving a golf ball—the quick upward swing of the arms and shoulders with the twist of the body may bring powerful muscular forces to act upon this region. Now and then a player will exclaim, "I felt something give." At the moment there may be little distress but within a short time the ache may become acute.

Treatment must be directed first toward posture, making sure that a normal balance of muscles is attained. If one stands, walks, and sits so that the weight of the body is evenly distributed little difficulty will be observed. The back muscles are thus kept in tone and will not tire to the point of pain even though overused occasionally. Many an individual assumes the question mark posture without being aware that he or she is doing so. Here exercise and massage—gradually returning the spine to its normal contour through muscular restoration—will assist.

If arthritis is the cause it means a hunt for infection, careful regulation of the diet, and heat. A support—the so-called sacroiliac pad—will often prove comforting. But this should be discarded shortly after the strain which brought on the ache has disappeared. Everything is done to provide rest for the muscles with the bones in their normal relations.

I recall very well a case of sacroiliac disturbance in a woman aged 42. Despite everything that could be done the stiffness increased on retiring. It was found that she was sleeping on a soft, down filled mattress. The very weight of the body increased the pressure on the sacroiliac joints. A firm, hard mattress solved the problem. Severe cases may be obliged to wear a plaster cast for a time.

But sometimes we must look farther than the back itself as pain in this vicinity may come from hemorrhoids, bad position of the pelvic organs in women, or some disease of these structures. But nine times out of ten the origin will be found in the back itself. As has been well said, if we walked on all fours we would have far less discomfort, so perhaps after all it is the price we pay for joining the bipeds.

ASTIGMATISM.

E. F. G. writes:

1. What causes astigmatism?
2. Is it curable in time?
3. Could I use drops of some kind to enable me to read without the use of glasses?

REPLY.

1. Astigmatism is usually due to a change in the normal curvature of the cornea. As a rule, one is born with this slight defect but if acquired it is caused by inflammation or some injury to the eye.
2. No.
3. Suitable glasses will correct the error. Drops will not help.

BOWLEGS.

R. F. writes: I am 17 years old and bowlegged. Is there anything I can do about it?

REPLY.

Bowlegs are caused by rickets, a disease of childhood. Nowadays children are given cod liver oil, which aids the bones to develop normall. Perhaps the difficulty is not as pronounced as you imagine. At any rate, a skilled orthopedic surgeon should be consulted. Tailors and dressmakers accomplish wonders in disguising the outward bend of the legs.

CONGESTED NOSTRIL.

B. S. B. writes: I am bothered by congestion of one nostril every morning when I get up. Is this sinus trouble? Is there any remedy?

REPLY.

In the absence of other symptoms, sinus infection is probably not present. However, it would be a good thing to have your nose examined by an expert. Try irrigating the air passages with a mild salt solution, and use a small bit of white vaseline in the nostril at night.

TOO MUCH WATER.

B. B. writes: You caution against drinking too much water. What happens when a person does that? Do we sweat in proportion to the water we drink?

REPLY.

The tissues swell with the fluid that cannot be used or excreted. Furthermore, the circulation is engorged unless the kidneys are working at par.

Perspiration is one way of ridding the system of water but sometimes the sweat glands do not function.

HEMORRHOIDS.

F. O. B. writes: Can hemorrhoids reappear after they have been operated on?

REPLY.

Yes, if the same conditions causing them are still present. Operation removes the hemorrhoids but not the cause. Helpful suggestions are: avoid constipation, do not strain at stool, and regulate the diet, omitting irritating foods.

From Across the Sea

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

KAUNAS, Lithuania.—A strong movement among the lower ranks of the Lithuanian priesthood to cancel the celibacy vows of the clergy is causing the higher ecclesiastical authorities much anxiety.

According to the newspaper Lietuvos Sinios, 25 per cent of all Lithuanian priests favor this action and recently 70 priests have renounced their vows, left the church, and married. For trespassing their vows of celibacy ten other priests are now confined in monasteries. Among them are capable men enjoying wide popularity because of their government and cultural work.

Reporting that only the Vatican can decide this question, the paper asserts that Lithuanian clergy are not alone in their opposition to the vows of celibacy, but that a strong movement "opposing this unnatural mode of life" exists in other Catholic countries. The Sinios reports that the priests have petitioned the Vatican to abolish this rule, which was introduced with the intention of binding the clergy more closely to church work.

Another problem facing solution in Lithuania is the government's inability to find an executioner to dispose of five men recently sentenced to death in Klaipeda. According to the old German law of the Memel territory, the men should be beheaded, but the Lithuanian government objects to this form of execution. The gas chamber method, legalized a year ago, cannot be used because no chamber has been built.

The Lithuanians recently arranged a trial execution using the lethal gas method, but it turned out to be a messy affair and a return to the former method of using a firing squad is being advocated. Meanwhile the five condemned are waiting to discover which way they are going to die.

SHARE IN ESTATE.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My son, 20 years old, had an aunt in California who passed away several weeks ago.

1. If she left a will naming him an heir and he does not trust the party who will have charge of will, to whom does he write in California to inquire if he is mentioned in her will?
2. Does the Probate court there notify him here at his address that he is an heir?
3. If he is an heir should he employ an attorney or isn't that necessary?
4. Does he have to write to Probate court in California to get information?
5. Where and to whom does he write in California?
6. If the will has been put in a strong box or safe deposit box in the bank, who gets to the box first to see what the will states, an attorney appointed by the government or court? Do the heirs get to the box first?
7. Does the bank appoint some one, an uninterested party, to read the will, to see that justice is done?
8. If will is found in safe deposit box in bank is it possible for party in full charge of will to cheat my son out of his share?
9. Does the representative of bank opening said safe deposit box or court see that each heir is notified that he is an heir to said will? G. M.

1. He can ask the clerk of the Probate court there for a copy of the will. He will have to pay a small fee.
2. If they have his address he will get notice.
3. Ordinarily it is not necessary for the beneficiaries to be separately represented.
4. See preceding answers.
5. Same.
6. The first opening of the box should be in the presence of representatives of inheritance tax office.
7. No. It would be filed in court and the parties could read it there.
8. We are not in a position to say that cheating is impossible.
9. This responsibility would rest upon the executor. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

THE CASE AGAINST THE BOYCOTT.

Hinsdale, Ill., Oct. 15.—The American Federation of Labor voted a boycott on Japanese goods. The same federation boycotted German goods quite some time ago, with the result that Germany purchased only one-half of her cotton requirements from us and the other half from Brazil. The latter country is becoming a serious competitor to our cotton export.

If Japan buys her cotton elsewhere our cotton growers will face starvation in the not distant future. This is a most serious matter. Our personal likes or dislikes of Hitler or the mikado should not penalize our southern citizens. The federation of labor should be compelled to set up a fund for the support of the cotton growers.

Germany and Japan always bought more from us than we bought of them. Why slap a good customer in the face, besides causing more unemployment and still more taxes? E. C. M.

A REFERENDUM ON WAR.

Chicago, Oct. 11.—Because grave things are beginning to happen which may involve this country in war with Europe, I am requesting you to accept and carry out a plan which I think will have great bearing in preventing this war. Recent articles appearing in your paper indicate conclusively that you are averse to anything that would drag us into war with Europe, and for this reason I feel at liberty to submit my plan to you.

It is a known fact that America is 100 per cent against war with any foreign nation which would require Americans leaving this country to fight in a foreign country. America wants and demands a referendum vote on whether or not we leave this country to engage in war with any foreign nation.

For the sake of humanity and in the name of God I plead with you, please further this idea before it is too late.

F. W. ERNST.

HE DISAPPROVES OF HUNTING.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—I notice in this morning's TRIBUNE that Bob Becker, oracle on the fine art of wild life slaughtering, advises the use of a short barreled gun for snipe and ducks.

I have a much better suggestion: Make a gun with a long curved barrel which when fired will blow the fool head off the moron who has made up his small mind to blow into fragments some hapless wild creature infinitely more beautiful and useful than he.

I'm not naturally vindictive, but I like to think of the members of Mr. Becker's clientele of pot bellied city killers floundering about with broken arms in the reeds, waiting for a super-retriever to joyously mangle them before dragging them ashore to be gloated over by some clown weighted down with about $300 worth of silly equipment. I have one child at home sick and two others who must eat.

AMERICAN OBLIGATIONS.

Lenexa, Kas., Oct. 8.—In all this international unrest there are four things that stand out like mountains on a clear horizon.

First, this country is not treaty bound to support the league of nations and never has been. Otherwise the senate might just as well have ratified the Versailles treaty in the first place.

Second, this country is not obligated under the nine power treaty to guarantee the territorial and administrative integrity of China, but rather only to respect it.

Third, China, since July 7, 1937, could have prevented the Japanese invasion without sacrificing any territory south of the Great Wall. The original Marco Polo bridge incident was Chinese provoked and the Japanese demands never included the surrender of territory. Two agreements reached by Chinese and Japanese officers on the ground were both overthrown by the Nanking government.

And fourth, Roosevelt's Chicago speech was made on a trip designed to enhance his prestige when it was sadly in need of enhancement. The chief aim of the administration from now on is to do everything possible to cover up the black mark remaining from the Black appointment to the Supreme court, even though it may involve another war to make the world safe for democracy or safe for Roosevelt's Democratic leadership.

Wilson's effort was commendable. The Atlantic sea lanes were opened and representative government was preserved in France, England, Canada, and the United States, but Wilson did not know how to make peace. And it is beginning to appear as if Roosevelt doesn't know any more about it than Wilson did.

CHARLES A. SCHMIDT.

A PLATFORM FOR LABOR.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—Has it ever occurred to the heads of the A. F. of L. and C. I. O. that they are a contributing cause of unemployment and the high cost of living? They are also playing the politicians' game by continually fighting industry, as that is the administration's theme song to garner their votes. If Green and Lewis really wish to use the tremendous power they exercise over all politicians let them sound the political death of every officeholder who refuses to reduce taxes and carry it through to the bitter end. It does not take an economist or a brain truster to figure what the results of a reduction in taxes would mean: Higher wages without higher living costs, more money for all to spend, business expansion, more jobs without an increase in pay rolls. How about it, Green and Lewis?

H. F. BAUMGARTNER.

GRASSHOPPERS AND TURKEYS.

Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 13.—I have read your article of Aug. 22—or was it an editorial—on the abundant and cheaply grasshopper fed Texas turkey crop. I am reminded of the time [just a few years ago] when Chicago was so seriously threatened with invasion by the English hordes led by the late George V.

May I suggest THE TRIBUNE sponsor the project of transporting vast armies of these grasshoppers from Texas to Chicago, where they may be trained as soldiers? Such a kicking army would cause any foreign horde to think twice before attempting to conquer our beautiful Windy city of the middle west.

STUDY 2 SOURCES FOR $1,200,000 IN RELIEF CRISIS

Aldermen Given Pledge of Grocery Credit.

Two possible ways of meeting a $2,000,000 estimated shortage in Chicago's $6,000,000 relief needs for November and December will be considered this morning at a meeting of the city council's finance committee. Ald. J. M. Arvey [24th], its chairman, explained that under the law an additional $1,200,000 from the 1927 poor relief levy is available for this purpose.

He said that Leo M. Lyons, Chicago relief commissioner, is authorized to spend up to 90 per cent of the total levy, but that state laws prevent the city from realizing more than 75 per cent of the sum by sale of tax anticipation warants. This has been done, but the 15 per cent still unrealized by warants, which amounts to $1,200,000, remains as a security for making further loans against uncollected taxes.

Explains Credit Plan.

When he explained this yesterday to a meeting of 75 independent grocers at the Sherman hotel they adopted a resolution to extend the $1,200,000 credit to the city relief administration. He also explained to the group, made up of members of the Independent Food Dealers' association, that his committee will recommend that the credit be repaid next February from sale of 1938 relief tax warants or from other sources.

Considers City Loan.

When Albert Balanow, spokesman for the grocers, expressed concern whether wholesalers would accept the arrangement in providing them with supplies, Sidney M. Libit, secretary of the Wholesale Grocers association, indicated willingness to coöperate if legal questions were cleared up. Mr. Lyons told the grocers that coal dealers had agreed to provide credit for relief needs.

Alderman Arvey also outlined a second plan for meeting the crisis, which is aggravated by the growing need for fuel, winter clothing for school children, and demands for back rent. He said he was investigating the legality of borrowing the $1,200,000 from the city's $13,000,000 cash funds.

Mr. Lyons emphasized, however, that the basic relief problem of reducing the load by finding private employment for client still remained. He will confer today with George J. Crawley, president of the Illinois board of private employment agencies, who reported last week that hundreds of jobs are available.

SHOOTS HUSBAND

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

MRS. BERTHA PINZINE.

Anthony Pinzine was shot three times yesterday by his wife, Bertha, during a quarrel in their flat at 236 South Ashland boulevard.

She said she had been visiting a woman friend, but when she returned Pinzine accused her of meeting a man. Then he tried to hit her with a chair. She seized a revolver from under the mattress and shot him in the nose, right wrist, and arm.

Mrs. Pinzine, who is 35 years old, ran outside and surrendered to Park Policeman Joseph Burzych. Pinzine was taken to County hospital, where it was said his condition is serious.

BURLESQUE ROW SHOWS GO ON, AND SO DO RAIDS

"The show must go on," said managers of the theaters and cafés of South State street's burlesque row on which 70 men and 45 women were arrested early yesterday morning on charges of presenting or participating in indecent exhibitions. And yesterday afternoon and evening the shows were indeed going on.

But the police were carrying on their work, too. So yesterday afternoon they raided two so-called penny arcades. At 434 South State street they seized 22 machines said to contain immoral pictures, and 26 of the same kind of machines were seized at 638 South State street, and six men were taken into custody from the two places.

Shows are Unchanged.

The managers of all places that had been raided earlier said their shows had not been changed—that the girls wore as much or as little as when the raiders interrupted the Saturday night-Sunday morning revels. But at one place the stellar attraction, June St. Clair, described as an exotic dancer, failed to live up to the tradition that the show must go on. She appeared neither at the Rialto theater, 336 South State street, where she had top billing, nor at the Central police station, where she was expected.

All those arrested in surprise raids ordered by Commissioner Allman were released on bail of $125 each; $100 on a state charge of advertising or presenting an indecent show, and $25 on a city charge of presenting an indecent exhibition. They are to be arraigned tomorrow in the Women's court.

Raided Places Listed.

The shows raided and the number of persons arrested in each place were: Rialto theater, 22 women and 10 men; Blondie's High Life Gardens, 602 South State street, 12 women and 5 men; the Museum, 446 South State street, 5 women and 14 men; a store with a blind front at 452 South State street, 8 women and 1 man; the Gem theater, 450 South State street, 7 women and 5 men; the Dugout cabaret, 502 South State street, 8 women and 6 men; Velos' café, 525 South State street, 5 women and 1 man; Agnes' café, 655 South State street, 4 women and 3 men.

Miss St. Clair had left her dressing room fifteen minutes before the police stopped the show. The theater promised to have her surrender during the afternoon, but she didn't. Neither did she appear at the theater. Her arrest was ordered.

He lived on a farm owned by his sister, Mrs. Amanda Borg, 6037 Kenmore avenue, Chicago.

DOUBLE SLAYER IS FLOWN BACK HOME FOR TRIAL

South Paris, Me., Oct. 17.—(AP)—Back tracking by air the gruesome trail police say he took with two death silenced passengers, slim Paul Dwyer, 18 years old, returned today to this little town to face charges of having murdered his elderly benefactors, Dr. and Mrs. James G. Littlefield.

Red eyed after a sleepless night and hours of questioning the youth stumbled from a chartered plane which brought him to Portland from North Arlington, N. J., where police found him asleep at the wheel of an automobile in which the bodies of this town's kindly physician and his wife were secreted.

Our collection of "accent on form" dresses begins at $35

The figure feminine, the body beautiful, the form divine—call it what you will—is again the height of fashion. Again, as in vigorous periods since the days of Cleopatra, it is chic to show the natural lines of the figure. In the realm of evening fashion, this trend reveals itself in two ways: the romantic, full-skirted, small-waisted silhouette—and the slim, often beltless sheath. In daytime clothes, the sheath leads all the rest. The newest-looking daytime dresses are the ones that mold the figure into lovely, fluid lines—as, for example, the one we give you today—typical in its "accent on form" of our latest collection for both night and day.

Sharnova Can Match Words, Voice Quality

BY CECIL SMITH.

Sonia Sharneva, contralto of the Chicago City Opera company, a singer too little appreciated in Chicago, appeared as soloist with the Illinois Symphony orchestra, Albert Goldberg conducting, in the Great Northern theater yesterday afternoon.

Her solos included two Wagner excerpts and Mahler's cycle of four songs, "Lieder eines Fahrenden Gesellen" ["Songs of a Wandering Youth"]. The Mahler cycle had not been heard here for more than twenty years.

While the texture of Mme. Sharnova's voice is dusky and even a bit rasping, her command of vocal technique is far above the ordinary. In the Mahler songs she displayed a genuine flair for matching the sense of the words with a suitably expressive tone color, and in the process brought forth a pianissimo of great beauty.

The songs themselves are Mahler at his best. While Mahler never learned to write a piece of music that did not fall to pieces half a dozen times before it somehow finally ended, the "Songs of a Wandering Youth" are full of episodes of appealing melodic beauty and harmonic piquancy.

Mr. Goldberg conducted the orchestra in the Chicago première of the tone poem "Lilacs," by Edward Burlingame Hill of Harvard university. Prof. Hill is a noted student of French music. The influence of his study is apparent in this impressionistic score. It gives the impression more of skilful assimilation of the methods of Debussy, Roussel, and d'Indy than of any forceful personal inspiration. Even though he is one of the most amiable of men, I do not think Mr. Hill would have cared for the orchestra's rough, wholly unbewitching performance.

An orchestration of the middle-sized one of Bach's three organ preludes and fugues in G minor by Arthur Dunham received its first performance anywhere. The transcription seemed too theatrical, although the resources of the orchestra were handled with evident skill.

In these pieces, and in Beethoven's Fourth symphony, the orchestra did not reach its best form. It has a reputation to live up to, and it should play better than it did yesterday.

The Greek government will be represented by Demetrios Sicilianos, ambassador of Greece at Washington.

Ballet of 1841 More Frank in Its Pantomime

BY EDWARD BARRY.

In the course of its two performances at the Studebaker theater yesterday, the Mordkin ballet presented a museum piece called "Giselle." This ballet dates from 1841 and makes the "old" ballets in the répertoire of most companies seem like the upstarts of yesterday.

Based on a story of Gautier, "Giselle" concerns itself with such stock situations as love between prince and peasant, the jilted suitor's desire for revenge, and the eventual remorse of practically every one concerned. The rather vapid but sometimes charmingly lyrical music is from the pen of Adolphe Adam.

As performed yesterday by the Mordkin ballet, "Giselle" impressed one as a made to order product for the purpose of displaying the skill of the woman principal, in this case Lucia Chase. There is solo after solo foisted upon the fragile story.

The pantomime is not, as one would expect, of a subtle and delicate order. Instead of the symbolic gestures to which we are accustomed the characters here actually push one another around when the action demands that some one should be pushed around.

Aside from Miss Chase, whose ever recurring solos were greeted with more and more applause as the presentation went on, the most important dancers were Leon Varkos as her lover and Nina Stroganova as Queen of the Willys. Willys, by the way, turn out to be the spirits of bethrothed women who die before their marriage.

Mr. Varkos is a tremendously agile dancer whose technical resource is apparently endless. Miss Stroganova specializes in the light, disembodied type of work and floats about like a great fellow.

Mikhail Mordkin, once the dancing partner of Pavlowa and now highly important in the teaching and organizing ends of ballet, appeared in person in "The Goldfish," a modern work with music by Tcherepnine but based on an old story of Pushkin. He mimed eloquently the part of the troubled fisherman whose golden catch upsets his none too stable domestic peace.

After yesterday's Kimball hall recital by Sylvia Libkin, soprano, and Bruce Grimes, bass, one is justified in lamenting the rareness of such old time virtues as the ability to sing simply and clearly. Here were two young artists, intelligent and scholarly in high degree, who yet overdramatize their music and compromise the line of their singing with too frequent and too sudden alterations of quality and force.

Question 13 in the National Self-Rating Bridge Examination appeared last Friday. It was:

Question 13: You are West, declarer at a three no trump contract in rubber bridge.

Your hand and dummy are as follows:

WEST	EAST [Dummy]
♠ A Q 4	♠ 6 3 2
♥ A 7 5	♥ 4 3 2
♦ A J 6 3 2	♦ 5
♣ 9 3	♣ A K Q 10 5 4

North opened the seven of spades, South played the king. How do you play the hand?

Answer: Win the first trick. Lead the club nine and PASS IT. You do not need all six club tricks to fulfill your contract. Five will be enough. By passing one club you maintain communication with the dummy and virtually assure yourself of five club tricks. If you put up one of dummy's high honors on your first club lead you will make only three club tricks if one of the defenders originally held J x x x. [Two points demerit for any other line of play.]

TODAY'S QUESTIONS.

Question 14: Both sides vulnerable. You are South. Your partner dealt and bid one spade. Second hand passed. Your holding is:

♠ 6 ♥ Q 5 4 ♦ A 10 7 5 3 ♣ J 8 4 2

What call do you make, and why?

Question 15: Both sides vulnerable. Your partner dealt and bid one spade. Next hand overcalled with one no trump. Your holding is:

♠ 7 ♥ A 10 6 ♦ Q J 10 8 5 ♣ Q 9 7 4

What call do you make?

TODAY'S HAND.

Match point duplicate.
South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH
♥ 10
♦ A 8 7 3 2
♣ J 6 4

WEST	EAST
♠ 7 2	♠ 8 5
♥ A Q J 9 8	♥ K 7 6 3 2
♦ K Q	♦ 9 5 4
♣ Q 8 5 2	♣ 10 9 3

SOUTH
♠ K Q J 6 4
♦ J 10 6
♣ A K 7

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	2 hearts	3 spades	Pass
4 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

North's double raise was a shade light, considering that it was made over an intervening bid. But, since a single raise would have been an underbid, North chose the lesser of two evils.

West opened the diamond king. Dummy's ace won, and two rounds of trumps were led. Declarer then led a diamond, and West was back on lead. On the theory that a heart lead might establish a possible king in declarer's hand, West decided that the only hope of defeating the contract lay in establishing club tricks. Accordingly, he led his fourth best club. This created a finessing position for declarer where actually none had existed. The jack was put up from dummy and held the trick. Declarer then drew East's nine of diamonds, crossed to dummy with a trump, and discarded his two losing hearts on the long diamonds. In all, the opponents took only one trick and, consequently, a zero on the board.

West had been entirely too optimistic in attempting to defeat the contract. In order to establish two club tricks for his side he would have had to find East with both the king and ten. Declarer was, of course, marked with at least the ace. In a rubber bridge game, even this remote chance would be worthwhile, but in match point duplicate West would have been better advised to have cashed his heart ace, thus making sure he would not lose it.

Tomorrow's Hand

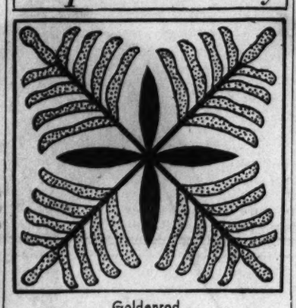
Urgent Plea for Stove.

Urgent calls for stoves of all kinds are increasing daily. An emergency case is reported by a medical worker from one of the large clinics for the H. family on the south side. The father of the family has a severe case of bronchial asthma, and is on relief. There are three small children, and the living conditions are extremely poor. Because of the father's physical condition it is imperative that a stove for heating and cooking be provided.

Fragile Looking Applique Quilt Requires Accuracy



Goldenrod.

BY NANCY CABOT.

An applique block as fragile in appearance as the "Goldenrod" block is one which, of necessity, requires accuracy and precision in cutting and extreme care in applique. Present day quilt makers are more fortunate than their forebears who made goldenrod blocks, but not in the lovely shades of yellow available today. The "Goldenrod" blocks are set together in an alternate arrangement with plain blocks, and fifteen of each are required to make a quilt measuring 88 by 105 inches.

Good Morning!

"Prisoner of Zenda" is a glamorous reminder of the good old days when we read thirstily Anthony Hope's thrilling adventure novels, "Prisoner of Zenda" and "Rupert of Hentzau." It is a picture after every man's heart. And HOW the kids are going to love it!

Against picturesque backgrounds, magnificently photographed, the familiar story unfolds. And I doubt if ever you have liked Ronald Colman better than you will in his dual rôle of the dashing English adventurer, Van Rassendyll and his dissipated royal cousin, King Rudolph.

You will recollect that Van Rassendyll comes to a small central European country with nothing on his mind more weighty than fishing. He is espied by two of Rudolph's courtiers who are struck—as everybody he has met has been struck—by his remarkable resemblance to Rudolph. Col. Zapt and Fritz von Tarlenheim engage him in conversation. . . . Rudolph appears. . . . Van Rassendyll is carried off by his relative for a visit. . . . And fate laughs and starts playing tricks. . . .

Rassendyll is compelled to masquerade as Rudolph in order to save the latter's throne for its rightful heir. . . . The masquerade entails much exciting intrigue and action.

This is heavily participated in by the wicked Prince Michael, who has designs on the throne; by Rupert of Hentzau, the latter's henchman; by a lovely and enigmatic Antoinette de Mauban, who loves and is madly jealous of Michael, and by the Princess Flavia, destined to be the wife of the king after his coronation. It is immediately before this ceremony that the picture's events start to happen.

[Van Rassendyll and Flavia read life's meaning in each other's eyes instanter—and the devil is to pay. . . .]

Zapt and Von Tarlenheim are necessary and busy adjuncts to the plot. . . .

The narrative moves swiftly, engrossingly to a dramatic finish—a teaser of a finish! And when the piece is over you wish it weren't! [That's praise, in case you don't recognize it.]

Mr. Colman plays his two parts with superb assurance, investing each characterization with just what it needs.

Douglas Fairbanks Jr. makes a whale of a comeback as the charming, two timing, conscienceless Rupert. How glad you are that the fascinating devil lives to sin again. Probably—IhopeIhopeIhope—in an adaptation of "Rupert of Hentzau." I think the producers will be nuts if they don't see that he does. Certainly box office receipts SHOULD warant their making the sequel to "The Prisoner of Zenda."

Raymond Massey gives a brilliant performance as the sinister Michael, and the ladies, Madeleine Carroll and Mary Astor—one so dark and one so fair—are charming. [How thin Mary has grown!] . . . C. Aubrey Smith and David Niven are admirable as the faithful watchdogs of royalty. Every minor rôle has been enacted with skill and direction, I'm telling you, was just swell!

Come on, forget taxes and kluxes! Gallop over to the Chicago and let "Prisoner of Zenda" chase your cares away!

See you tomorrow.

Does Wonder for the Figure

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

If ever there was a frock that could do wonders for your figure, it's this one. And if you can hold a needle at all you can make the model without any trouble, because it's the simplest dress when it comes to sewing, but the most intricate one where styling is involved. The observers who admire you in this frock will never know that all there is to it is a few seams, some shirring and a carload of buttons, or a zipper!

The dress is molded to the figure, emphasizing the bustline, in accordance with the latest fashion scheme. It also stresses the slenderness of the waistline, and gives advantageous exhibition of the hipline, also in the spirit of the current style tradition. You're aware, of course, that flat, curveless hips are out. Plumpness, but not too much of it, is important again, and the flat chested, flat hipped sisters will have to exercise and eat a few chocolates to fill out the silhouette.

The sleeves of this dress are puffed at the shoulders to produce a squared effect. They retain their fulness all the way to the elbow, where they are permitted to become slender and fitted to the arm. They may be either full or three-quarter length.

Now to fabrics. Crêpe, velvet, duvetyn and satin, as well as sheer woolen, are important this season and perfect for the dress in question.

Style No. 3181 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 4⅝ yards of 39 inch material.

The Week's Wash

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 17.—Jack Oakie is set for the Vallee picture. . . . R-K-O feud between Sam Briskin and Pan Berman will hasten Leo Spitz' trip to the coast. . . . Warner's have offered Jim Cagney peace and a new deal. . . . Ben Piazza is elated over Bee Lillie's first rushes. . . . Everybody on the Cantor program have had girl babies [Jimmy Wallington, Frank Gill] . . . so gag-writer Eddie Davis, who wants a boy, switched fro mCantor to R-K-O.

Tabloid interview with Rudy Vallee: "I'd rather be a $10 a week assistant to racket buster Thomas Dewey in New York City than anything else. I hate rackets, and the parasitical thought behind them. People who work for a living should be free from these slimy racketeers. Some day, when I'm older, I'd be proud to run for the governorship of my own state, Maine, but the politicians wouldn't want me because I'd insist on a free hand and no spoils system. Marriage? I like to be around with pretty girls — Gloria Youngblood, Wendy Barrie — but I won't get married for years. Marriage is out of the question, and that's on the level, Ed."

European war clouds will cancel Paul Muni's trip to Europe. . . . Radio tries to entertain everybody: The Jeanette Macdonald program offered "Nearer My God to Thee" and "Mad Dogs and Englishmen" as two of the songs. . . . Mervyn Le Roy's trip to New York will decide whether he stays with Warner's or goes in with Sam Goldwyn and Alex Korda in the new United Artist setup.

Helen Menken planes in tomorrow for a rôle in "White Banners." . . . Elissa Landi and Nino Martini will get married any minute . . . Constance Worth and Walt Butterfield are an item . . . how can R-K-O film the story of Nijinsky for Fred Astairs . . . factors that entered into the making of Nijinsky would be blue penciled by the Hay's office. . . . Eddie Cantor's "Ali Baba" is the best thing he's done on the screen in a long time . . . it's his first under the Zanuck banner and will clean up . . . his deal is a $150,000 flat guarantee, plus 15 per cent of the gross between $1,200,000 and $2,000,000, and 25 per cent above that . . . out of that he pays back 70 per cent to the government in tax, so it ain't all beer and skittles . . . Rudy Vallee, for instance, breaking records at the Ambassador hotel here, will lose $6,000 on the three week engagement as a result of train fares. . . . Warner's Charlie Einfeld doesn't forget the old crowd from Broadway, as witness his engaging Bob Taplinger and Francis Albertanti in publicity.

Launch Sale of Boxes for Opera Season

BY JUDITH CASS.

On Saturday, Oct. 30, the Civic Opera house will be ablaze with lights and alighting from motors at its doors will be Chicago's opera-goers, young and old, each in her most formal evening gown and her most luxurious evening wrap.

That this year's opening of the Chicago City Opera company season will be a spectacular one, no one doubts, for this year's fashions lend themselves so admirably to help create such a picture. The richness of the furs, the glitter of the fabrics, the brilliance of the jewels—costume jewelry sparkles and shines just as colorfully and blazingly as precious gems—all will contribute to make the scene as gala a one as the traditional first night at opera should be.

Those who are managing the opera company are determined that the entire seven week season shall be a brilliant one, and with that end in view they have engaged the finest artists obtainable. All that was done some time ago, but now during these last two weeks perhaps the hardest job of all remains to be done. And that is to sell the boxes, for unoccupied boxes are an eye sore in an opera house.

Mrs. Jacob Baur, who is eminently fitted to head the box committee, finally consented to act as chairman and to start the work of disposing of the boxes she is having a rally this afternoon at 3 o'clock at her home, 1511 Astor street.

Selects Committee of Young Women.

Mrs. Baur has decided that it is the young women who must work to dispose of boxes now; the older ones did their share in years past, so Mrs. Baur has invited numerous young matrons to serve on her committee. Mrs. Baur herself already has taken a box for the season and so have the Jason F. Whitneys, Mrs. L. Hamilton McCormick, Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick, Mrs. Townsend McKeever, Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Dawes, Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Cummings, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin M. Miller, and the Samuel and the Leonard Ettelsons, among others.

"The 'old guard' doesn't support opera now" is a familiar refrain, but it isn't entirely a true one, for although the complete list of boxholders probably will not include the names of all those who used to have boxes in the Auditorium, all of the "old guard" still alive supports the opera to the extent of buying two or more tickets weekly. For instance some of those who have tickets for Monday nights are Mrs. Emmons Blaine, Miss Kate Buckingham, Mrs. Henry Bartholomay, Mrs. Charles H. Besly, the Carter H. Harrisons, the Thomas W. Hindes—they also have Saturday matinée seats—Miss Gwethalyn Jones, Mrs. Levy Mayer, Mr. and Mrs. David A. Noyes, the Alfred T. Cartons, Mr. and Mrs. William M. Collins, Mrs. D. Mark Cummings,

Mary Gardner Bows

Miss Mary Gardner, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Gardner of Lake Forest, was introduced formally at a tea at her parents' home last Saturday afternoon. That night her cousin, Mrs. John Jay Borland II., gave a small dinner party for the debutante and her assistants, including Mrs. Borland's sub-deb sister, Miss Margaret Hutchins, Miss Betty Armour and Miss Mary Seymour Adams. Miss Kay Goodman also assisted but Miss Judy Butler was entertaining at dinner for her Saturday night. Miss Gardner will be a model in the St. Luke's fashion show tomorrow afternoon and evening in the ballroom of the Stevens hotel.

Dark Browns Lead Parade of Winter Coats

BY RHEA SEEGER.

With the fall fashion parade in full swing here are new things to look for. . . . The best looking brown winter coats trimmed flatly and smartly with black Persian lamb. The brown is deep, dark, and slenderizing. Even the satin lining is as dark as the outer wool. It's a stunning new combine to wear with either brown or black clothes and either brown or black costume accessories.

As an alternate see the black coats, fitted and slim as a poplar tree, trimmed with sheared beaver fur, just as new and just as exciting as the brown with black. Both combines are the newest finds in town.

Ask to see the newest dinner clothes in the same shop. Grand slim dresses with long fitted sleeves and daringly low cut necklines. These are made of a tricky new material, a silk and wool jersey mixture. This mixture makes the most clinging material to date, comes in a dull black and doesn't stretch or snag like synthetic silks or the all silk jerseys. Some spellbinders in the way of draped, silhouette-revealing daytime dresses come in the same material. These have the new long waistline, together with a rib hugging streamline and all the appealing details of the new manner. One model is made with a wind around silk jersey sash that ends in twenty-two inch silk fringe. This is tied directly in front. The colors come in such contrasting tones as fire-truck red, imperial purple, vivid blue, green, and the like. Another model goes in for intricate drapery over the chest and the new double clip trick—one side a green clip, the other a ruby red.

Pumpkin yellow in thin soft wool is used for stunning contrast dresses to wear under fur coats, so is a lovely new blue shade, the blue gleaming with fine outline edges of patent lether. Big buttons decorate the front.

For less money take an appreciative look at the smart velveteen jackets matched to Scotch plaid skirts, or plain bright colored sweaters in molten gold color to wear under the velveteen jackets and with a wool skirt.

Front Views and Profiles
By June Provines

HONOLULU, Hawaii.—The enthusiasm, civic affection and love of enduring beauty of one man in Honolulu is largely responsible for a park system of great beauty, one that carries into the future the high standards that the missionary families brought to these shores from New England more than a century ago and that still are the mainstay of its culture. He is Lester McCoy, chairman of the park board, not a member of a missionary family himself, but originally from Peoria, Ill. A young architect, Harry S. Bent, is assisting Mr. McCoy in making institutions of permanent beauty of the Honolulu parks. The buildings and architectural features of the various parks seem to be an expression of the island itself, subtly intimating its Polynesian beginnings and linking them to the present and future in buildings and walls and portals of a fine, simple modernity.

MOST beautiful and most ambitious of the public parks is Ala Moana park, which occupies some seventy-eight acres, with a mile and a quarter waterfront. Surely when present plans are completed and the trees and gardens have another year or two of growth, this will be the most beautiful park in the world. Banyan trees border Ala Moana drive, there is a magnificent beach, with a fine yacht harbor to one side. There are athletic fields and tennis courts, and a handsome sport pavilion, in which the murals, depicting ancient Hawaiian sports, were done by Robert Lee Eskridge of Chicago. One of the beauties of the park is the series of reflection pools laid in a geometrical pattern. These pools reflect the Chinese and Indian banyan trees planted in elevated banks, with stepped curbing that offers a seat to the wanderer.

BECAUSE of limited funds and in order to use the type of relief labor available, a simple type of poured boulder concrete construction was used, thus eliminating all usual types of architectural embellishment that add to the expense of a job. Here was where Architect Bent's genius came in. Under the brilliant sunlight of Hawaii the possibilities of striking effects through the play of light and shadow are numerous and these were utilized as decoration. The simplicity of the oyster white surfaces, with their play of lights and shadows, in contrast to the brilliant tints of blue sea and sky and the colorful planting has proved highly successful. Sliding white wood screens, the openings cut in a tapa pattern, add interest to the sport pavilion. There are tennis courts, bathing pavilions and other sport facilities, a fisherman's jetty, an aquarium, and some day there will be an outdoor restaurant, where the diners will have a view of mountains and sea and gardens. It is felt that at Ala Moana relief labor was used with 100 per cent return.

OTHER park projects, under the guidance of Mr. McCoy, who came to Honolulu some twelve years ago to become one of the most beloved and civic minded of Honolulu citizens, show a similar planning for permanent beauty. He himself looks at his parks a little sadly, for every pergola and promenade, every baseball field, and recreation building has meant a political fight. One feels that Mr. Bent should design a memorial to have ready at some future date when a grateful citizenry will wish to honor the man who builded for the comfort and education of future generations and who has had to fight politicians every step of the way.

THERE are some eighty parks in the Honolulu park system, all used by a mixture of races. The swimming pool at the municipal bath house is filled with Japanese and Chinese and Filipino children. Mother Waldron park is in the center of a slum district; Aala park is the gathering place for labor speakers.

Through the Looking Glass

New York, Oct. 17.—[Special.]—Some new and lovely perfumes and a whole family of powders and rouges and lipsticks were launched here one day last week. The perfumes are divine in fragrance and opulently packaged, but the makeup accessories were, we thought, extra special.

The rouge and lipstick shades and names are those of famous painters. There is a brilliant Goya red and a subtle, ladylike and extremely pretty Sargent pink—just to give you an idea. There is one shade named for and created by a contemporary painter—a deep, vivid color that does the right things for the very dashing, ultrachic modern woman. The makeups are keyed beautifully. The Sargent powder, for example, is ever so delicate, rather a cream shade with the faintest possible pink bloom on it.

There seems to be a great tendency down here to wear dark lipstick. You don't see one in an orange tone. The girls are all wearing hats that are either awfully silly and smart or hats that are picturesque, and beneath them the lips are darkly rouged. There is something about a black poke bonnet, for example, plus the inevitable veil and a pale face with heavily rouged lips that has great appeal for the fashionable New York woman.

And we don't know who buys or uses rouge here. Certainly not the women you see everywhere. They're invariably rougeless, concentrating on lip and eye makeup to give their faces vividness. Ivory tints of powder seem to be the favorites. It's a year to be "interesting looking," as one smart young thing explained.

It's a year, too, to be sure you don't have a hairdress like your neighbor's. Some coiffures are high, but more are low on the neck—and all hair is lustrous.

New Bauhaus, School of Design, to Start Class Work Today

The New Bauhaus, hailed the first school of design of its type in America, will open today at 1905 Prairie avenue in the old 25 room Marshall Field mansion, now remodeled so that its exterior Victorian lines contrast strangely with an ultra modern interior.

The New Bauhaus is named for the famed school of design at Dessau, Germany, which was founded by Walter Gropius. Such things as tubular furniture originated there. L. Moholy-Nagy, protégé of Gropius, is director of the school in Chicago. Adult students from a half dozen states have registered.

SAFE ROAD

By Katharine Newlin Burt

(Copyright: 1937: By Katharine Newlin Burt.)

SYNOPSIS.

When rich old Caleb Winter dies, his wife, Isabella, once his housekeeper, wires her daughter, Sally Lee Keyne, at school in Maryland, to come home at last. Because Caleb had demanded a housekeeper without family ties, Isabella had never told him of Sally. Sally bids a fond good-by to wise Mary Culpepper, school headmistress, and sets out. En route Sally meets Robin Ashe, whose family lives near the old Crewe mansion. Sally's new home—he falls in love with her. The Winter chauffeur meets Sally in Baltimore, and, driving her home, gives a lift to an arrogant tramp called Vincent. Sally orders the chauffeur to put him out. The morning after Sally's homecoming, Joseph Marr, his lawyer, reads Caleb's will, and her mother has a stroke. Informed of his wife's deception, Caleb left everything to his first wife's nephew, Obadiah Crewe. Mrs. Winter, if she stays on as housekeeper, to have shelter and an income. The new heir turns out to be the tramp—Vincent Obadiah Crewe.

INSTALMENT XIII.

DANGEROUS HATRED.

In her nineteen years, Sally had a far greater experience of courtesy than of rudeness, of friendliness than of anger, of love than of hate. But she could not disguise from herself now, remembering the tone of Vincent's voice and the look in his slate eyes, that she had now excited hatred in a dangerous quarter. It is hard for any one, especially for the young and even more especially for the young girl, to endure patiently a completely false image of herself in another person's mind. Sally, writhing vainly, saw herself as she must exist in the mind of Vincent Crewe; a snobbish and vulgar young woman, a sort of overeducated servant, who, uncertain of her own social standing, was quick to belittle that of others, cruel to what she fancied an inferior, apt to put such a fellow with emphasis into his place. She could not help hating the holder of this image; the more so because it had been evoked by her own unthinking behavior.

She hated Vincent chiefly because she had induced him to hate her, but also because he, a rough and ignorant man, was in a sense now her superior, the master of her fate. There lay her mother, helpless, in need of treatments that must be expensive and prolonged, dependent for shelter, food, her hope of life itself, upon the brutal terms of Caleb's will. "I hereby bequeath the shelter of my roof and wages . . . to be enjoyed on condition that she faithfully and humbly remain obedient to the orders of Obadiah Crewe . . ." and, under the circumstances, this condition must be fulfilled by Sally Keyne, who was by no means of a humble spirit. Faithful she would be, loyal to her mother but humble she was not. At this moment, defiance was the breath of her nostrils, a defiance only just able to keep abreast of fear.

For what did she or any one else know about this man? His credentials, she supposed, must have been in order, he must have been able to satisfy legal requirements as to his identity . . . but of his history, his past conduct, his record as a citizen, which of them all knew anything? And here was she, a girl of nineteen, left to his mercy.

The nephew of Jessica in his first night in his new home found it difficult to sleep. He foresook the high four-poster in which Caleb Winter had died and lay down upon the sofa. The silent and complicated mansion of his life with all its rooms and passages lay in his memory with a greater sense of reality than those of his material shelter and he could not hinder a perpetual wandering, a haunting of its darkest corners by his own tormented mind.

So it was that Obadiah Vincent Crewe rose early, grateful for day, and went out into a still morning to examine his estate.

He visited the stables, the garden and the garage, renewing an acquaintance with the chauffeur, George Elmer, who wore during this encounter a somewhat sheepish air. Having eaten a hearty breakfast with Ernest Brunn, his wife and pretty daughter, who were sitting down to theirs at the instant of their new employer's appearance, he set out on foot for the village of Hanbury, two or three miles from his front gate. In Hanbury's dry goods store he bought himself a complete new outfit of clothing, shed the overalls and khaki shirt and then looked up his lawyer, Joseph Marr.

"Good morning . . . good morning, Mr. Crewe. I hope you rested comfortably in your new home. You have been well advertised already, I perceive."

Crewe looked bewildered until Marr pushed to him across the desk a copy of the morning news. There he could read for himself the story of Caleb's will with its studied insult to his unfortunate widow and a highly colored description of his own sudden elevation from the estate of tramp to that of millionaire. Of Sally Keyne there was no mention. The fact of Mrs. Winter's earlier and secret marriage had evidently not leaked out.

The hero of this tale sat down to read it, bending forward with his elbows planted on far apart knees. Marr thought that never had he seen a young man in such fortunate circumstances at so great a disadvantage, so surely or so obviously depressed. His face turned a deep copper color while he read and presently he crumpled up poor Marr's nicely folded sheet and threw it down on the floor. He took out a can of cheap tobacco, rolled and lighted himself a cigaret.

"Hell! I'll be on every sucker list in the country. They'll be trying to kidnap me next. How the heck do those news devils get on a man's scent so quick?"

He smoked and brooded, his head in his hand, elbows still set upon his knees, Marr watching him. The fellow's body, Marr thought, was handsomer than his head, which was too small for its big throat and shoulders and had a predatory outline, hawk's or Roman legionary's. The apparent heaviness of physique was caused by the muscular development of physical labor, which always makes a man look bulky in civilized dress. Crewe should be advised to wear loose tweeds, he should dress carefully and very well. "Lord knows," thought Caleb's lawyer, "he can afford it." He must be told to let his hair grow and to get a gentleman's cut. That horrible army shave has left a paper white band across the back of his head, above his ears and at the top of his forehead. At this point, the subject of Marr's sartorial and tonsorial observations stood up.

"Look a-here, Marr, being a millionaire goes down good with me but how can I lay hands on some cash pronto."

"I can easily fix that for you." Marr, too, rose. "Suppose I take you around to the bank. I can arrange an advance, you can make a deposit and open a check account. By the way, what name will you be using? The will, and the newspapers have you . . . Obadiah."

Crewe went into a long fit of brooding.

"I reckon I'll leave it at that," he said sullenly. "It's not a pretty name but it's got one advantage . . . nobody that ever knew me before will think it's mine. I won't be getting every bum I ever owed a buck to, down on my neck."

He stood with his arms hanging rather far out at his sides, his fingers curled in. Watching him, Marr had suddenly a contracting vision: he saw a tawny haired child with an enormous pair of shining and open eyes. This fellow was not just exactly the man Marr would have chosen to set as guardian over the helpless life of a girl like Sally Keyne. She had her mother, of course, and a raft of tried and respectable servants, but still . . .

"How did you and Miss Sally get on together?" he asked as they went down the street.

"Pretty good considering," was Crewe's casual reply. "She can't be feeling very kind towards me under the circumstances."

"But you had met before."

"Can't say we met . . . we had a sort of contact. In fact, she had me thrown out of the front seat of her limousine. I begged a lift off that guy, Elmer. I was trying to get down here . . . just like she was. Sort of funny when you come to think of it."

"It is," Marr agreed dryly and shooting a sidelong glance up at his companion, "it is to say the least . . . very odd indeed, the whole concatenation of events."

GASOLINE ALLEY—THE VOICE OF EXPERIENCE

Laughter Good Tonic at Home or in School

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Laughter's wonderful.

Every mother knows how children adore laughter, and if she'll just let herself go and laugh with them she'll capture a touch of their light-heartedness—and it will be one more thing to share, and they'll love her sharing it.

The teacher who has a fund of easy laughter or who knows how it brightens and lightens children to laugh together at something in the classroom has found out something valuable.

Laughter makes a break in the serious business of learning. Breaks are refreshing and relaxing. Pauses between periods for a short game or a story or a song or a physical change serve a similar purpose.

The light touch is as important for a teacher as for a mother. Laughter shared is a friendly thing, and friendliness is something a teacher must achieve if she is to be successful in handling her children. The subjects she teaches are not what I'm worrying about—it's the children, for no matter how gifted she may be in that direction, she will really get nowhere if she cannot manage her human material.

Children in school need to feel assured of a teacher's good will. When this is accomplished she doesn't have to reach them over a barrier of antagonism or a wall of teacher-resistance, but can meet them as a friend in whom they have confidence.

In a happy and constructive working together of teacher and pupil there will be, for one thing, no fear. A teacher can obtain the wholesome respect of her children and they can feel her authority without a trace of fear entering in. In fact they need from a teacher the security that comes from being guided by some one who knows where she's going and what it's all about, just as they need the same thing in a parent.

Fear should not be aroused by anger or coldness on the teacher's part—nor by the use of force.

Fear should not be aroused by threats of punishment, of failure, or of passing a child on to the principal for discipline. Fear is a cramping emotion to the personality—and certainly almost paralyzing to mental effort.

Fear of another sort can be aroused by the teacher who resorts to sarcasm, ridicule, or any measure which humiliates a child, either before the others or before his own inner self.

This is all destructive, negative, and gets both teacher and pupil nowhere. Correcting should be done so that it is kind as well as effective.

Always peevish, sullen, cross...?

Mrs. Edgar J. Crilly, Mrs. Edwin P. Dewes, Mrs. Moise Dreyfus, Admiral and Mrs. Hayne Ellis, the George B. Everetts, Mrs. John W. Gary, the Charles B. Goodspeeds—she also has Wednesday and Friday night tickets—Mrs. George Rasmussen, the junior Edward L. Ryersons, Mrs. Charles Wrigley, Mrs. Harry L. Street, Russell Tyson, and the William A. Yagers.

Finds Many Reasons for New Boxholders.

There are many reasons for there being new boxholders; those who used to have boxes at the Auditorium are older now, they entertain less, and many of them have much smaller incomes than they used to have. So it is only natural that there should be new names and new faces in the boxes, but let no one tell you in a sweeping statement that "the old guard" doesn't go, for they do.

The Saturday matinée will have an S. R. O. sign out each week, probably, there are so many subscribers for tickets for the afternoon performances.

There will be performances this year on Monday, Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday nights and on Saturday afternoons. "Aida" will be given on the opening night, not a subscription one, with Rethberg, Martinelli, and Czaplicki in the leading rôles.

Edmond M. Sullivans Parents of Daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmond M. Sullivan [Isabel Gordon] became the parents of their first child, a daughter, Friday night at St. Luke's hospital. The infant has been named Denise, the feminine counterpart of the given name of her Grandfather Sullivan, Judge Denis E. Sullivan. Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Gordon are the baby's maternal grandparents.

A daughter was born yesterday afternoon in Evanston hospital to Dr. and Mrs. Wallace D. Mackenzie [Betty Gillies]. The child has been named Madeleine Gillies. Her maternal grandmother, Mrs. James P. Gillies is here from Rye, N. Y., to welcome her first grandchild. Mr. and Mrs. Gillies formerly lived in Winnetka.

After spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Garfield King, the Clarence B. Mitchells have left on a motor trip to Virginia. They will return next week for another brief visit before going back to their California home.

An unfortunate climax to the otherwise glorious summer Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick spent abroad was an operation she underwent in London three weeks ago just before sailing home. Mrs. Chadwick landed a few days ago in the Normandie, and arrived at home Friday, accompanied by her doctor's surgical nurse, who will stay here until the patient has thoroughly recovered.

While abroad Mrs. Chadwick and Mrs. Marcus Daly of New York, who is the sister-in-law of America's former ambassador to Germany and England, Ambassador James W. Gerard, chartered Lady Rothermere's yacht in which they cruised in the Mediterranean during July and August.

Fortunato Jerace Going to Italy.

Mr. and Mrs. Fortunato Jerace have gone to New York to sail this week for Italy. They will return to Chicago to spend the Christmas holidays with Mrs. Jerace's son, Eugene McVoy, who is a freshman at Princeton, and her daughters, Mrs. Sidney S. Gorham Jr., Mrs. William Fellowes, and Mrs. Walter J. Kohler Jr.

Miss Ruth Fisher arrived at home last week after spending three months in Mexico. Miss Fisher brought home for a ten day visit some friends from Mexico City, the Carlos Iturbes.

Among the numerous gay parties given over the week-end was the tea Mr and Mrs. Hermon D. Smith gave at home in Lake Forest yesterday for Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henry Wilmerding. The Wilmerdings were married recently in London and have just returned to Chicago.

The American Opera society's first open meeting will be held at 11:30 o'clock this morning at the Casino, followed by luncheon. Excerpts from the American opera, "The Bride of Bagdad," by Julius Ozier, will be sung by Miss Freda Draper, contralto, and Blair Stewart, tenor. Theophil Voeks will be the pianist. Miss Elaine de Sellem is program chairman of the society.

Lake Shore Voters Open Season Today.

Dr. Horace J. Bridges will draw on observations made during his recent trip to England in a talk, "England in Calm and Storm," at the opening luncheon of the Lake Shore League of Women Voters today at the Casino. Mrs. Carroll H. Sudler, new president, will receive with Mrs. Augustus A. Carpenter.

Mrs. George D. McLaughlin, Mrs. Henry C. Murphy, and Mrs. Stuyvesant Peobody are giving a tea at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the Convent of the Cenacle, to meet the Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, auxiliary bishop of Chicago. Plans for the annual card party will be discussed.

An exhibition of badminton tonight at the Lake Shore Athletic club will draw a large crowd of members and guests as spectators. The Noel Flints, Mrs. Reid Chatillon, Mitchell Follansbee, the Chauncey Blairs, Miss Mary Wood, and the John Erskines are among those who will watch Jess Willard, national professional badminton champion, play William Hurley, Pacific coast champion, in one of the matches.

Cooking Editor Comes to Aid of Angel Food

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune.]

To one cook, making an angel cake is as simple as the five times five, but to the next one it presents frightening problems. A first trial failure at angel food often is enough to discourage an inexperienced cook completely.

If each failure didn't mean the waste of almost a dozen eggs and of other expensive ingredients, the situation wouldn't be serious. Continued practice always brings better results. But since practicing on angel cake bakery is an expense, a complete guide for baking flopproof angel cake is needed. Here is one.

Standard Angel Food Cake.
[10 inch pan]

1½ cups sugar
1 cup cake flour
1½ cups unbeaten egg whites [about 12 eggs]
1½ teaspoons cream of tartar
1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift the sugar once. Sift the flour once before measuring. Add ½ cup of sugar to the flour and sift this mixture three times. Beat the egg whites [which should be at room temperature] until frothy. Add cream of tartar and salt and continue beating until the whites are stiff enough to hang in an inverted bowl without flowing, but not until dry and lusterless. Add the remaining sugar [1 cup] gradually, beating constantly with the rotary beater. Add the vanilla and continue beating for two minutes. This is important, as it thoroughly dissolves the sugar and eliminates dark "sugar spots."

Now discard the rotary beater and use a wire whisk to fold in the flour-sugar mixture. Fold in about 4 tablespoonsful of this at a time, sifting it over the egg white and sugar mixture. When all the flour-sugar mixture has been carefully folded in continue folding a few additional times to insure perfect blending of all ingredients.

Pour the batter into a large, ungreased angel food cake pan [10 inches across the top and four inches in depth]. Turn the pan so that the batter will be evenly distributed. Gently place the pan on a rack in the center of an oven preheated to 325 degrees F. Bake for about one hour. When baked remove from the oven and invert the pan carefully on a cake rack. Let the cake hang in the pan until absolutely cold, about one hour. Then, with a sharp, thin knife, loosen the cake from the pan sides and from the tube and turn it out onto the cake rack.

These pointers may be helpful in baking any angel food cake.

1. For easiest separation of egg whites from the yolks it is desirable to have the eggs cold. Since the yolk is about one third fat, it is firmer when cold than when warm and, therefore, breaks less easily. Egg whites should stand at room temperature for several hours before using, as they give greater volume and a finer foam.

2. If possible use a pan which never has been greased, as this will result in a cake of greater volume.

3. Almond flavoring may be substituted for the vanilla, but use this with discretion. One-half teaspoon of almond extract with ½ teaspoon vanilla is very good. Vanilla with a few drops of lemon extract gives an excellent flavor.

Angel Food Layer Cake.

1 cup whipping cream
½ glass currant jelly
Bananas, sliced thin

Prepare the batter from any standard angel food recipe. Have ready two circles of waxed paper cut to fit exactly your tube or angel cake pan. Pour into the pan ⅓ of the batter, smooth it off, and cover it with one of the papers. Pour in another third and cover it with the second circle. Add the rest of the batter and bake as usual. When cooled the layers will separate easily. Just before serving whip the cream until frothy, and fold it into the jelly, which has been beaten. Spread this over the first layer and cover the filling with thin slices of banana. Add the second layer of cake, spreading it with filling and more bananas. Put the third layer in place and cover the top and sides of the cake with the filling, garnishing it with the rest of the banana slices. Cut in wedges or slices and serve.

Episcopal Primate to Visit Chicago on First Official Trip

The first official visit of the primate of the American Episcopal church who was elected to that office Saturday at Cincinnati, O., will be to Chicago. Bishop George Craig Stewart of Chicago, making this announcement, said that the new primate, the Most Rev. Henry St. George Tucker, would be the honor guest of Chicago Episcopalians at a banquet on Saturday night at the Hotel Sherman.

Bishop Tucker, who is head of the diocese of Virginia, will relinquish oversight of his see although he will retain its titular leadership. He is the son of the late Bishop Beverly D. Tucker of the diocese of southern Virginia. Before becoming bishop of Virginia the new primate was bishop of Kyoto, Japan, and president of St. Paul's university, Tokio. He is 63 years old. Under laws passed last week at Cincinnati, he will continue as primate until Jan. 1, 1944, when he will be automatically retired under the church's new age provisions.

Blackhead Is Seldom Cured by Cleansing

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Helen is registering a complaint. In fact, she is highly indignant that we should make the statement that every one suffering from blackheads is careless. She's very particular about scrubbing her face daily. Her contention is that the oil glands are too active to cope with.

Helen's carelessness may not be due to a lack of face washing but to the fact that she did not go further into corrective treatment. Blackheads, we know, accompany an oily skin and coarse pores. There is an accumulation of dust and dirt in the pore openings. If scrubbing is insufficient one needs to use massage and astringents to improve the circulation and so enlist the aid of the blood in correcting any skin eruptions. One must look to her diet and make sure she's not eating too many greasy foods, or too many rich desserts, and she'll want to be sure she drinks her daily quota of water. All these things have an effect on the condition of the skin.

In some cases it is necessary to express the contents of the pores. If so, wash the face with warm water and soap. Use a good, pure soap and rinse with warm water. Now massage the face thoroughly with a good cream until the skin is glowing. Remove the cream with tissues and then, with tissue-covered fingertips, remove the blackheads. Following this, apply an antiseptic solution, and then an astringent lotion to close the pores.

When circulation is retarded the functions of the skin are retarded. The glands are not properly nourished and they either secrete too little oil or, as in Helen's case, too much oil. Oily skin needs the stimulus of massage. Creams should not be left on long, however. The first application is wiped off, taking with it any dirt. Then more cream is applied and you massage for several minutes. Follow up with a soap and water washing and a cold rinse to close the pores.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 17.—(AP)—The Cleveland Rams were lambs today, led to a 35 to 10 slaughter by the Green Bay Packers in a National Professional Football league game before 12,000 fans.

LIONS, 30; DODGERS, 0

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 17.—(AP)—The Detroit Lions scored their fourth victory this season today by swamping the Brooklyn Dodgers, 30 to 0. Flashing their best attack of the season, the Lions had no difficulty in completely routing the team coached by their former leader, George [Potsy] Clark.

Vernon Huffman, former Indiana star, made one of the longest runs in the history of professional football when he intercepted a pass thrown by Nori on the Lion goal line and raced 100 yards for a score in the third period.

Long runs also produced two of the other Lion touchdowns. In the first period Ernie Caddel, on a reverse play, ran 47 yards for a touchdown. Early in the second period Regis Monahan, substitute guard, place kicked a field goal from the Dodger 20 yard line. Later in the period Detroit staged a long march that was climaxed when Bill Shepherd crashed over from the 4 yard line. Charles Hanneman, substitute Detroit end, scored the third Detroit touchdown near the end of the second period on a 50 yard run on an end around play.

Brooklyn had its only scoring chance when they carried a sustained attack to the Detroit seven yard line. A crowd of 21,000 saw the game. Lineups:

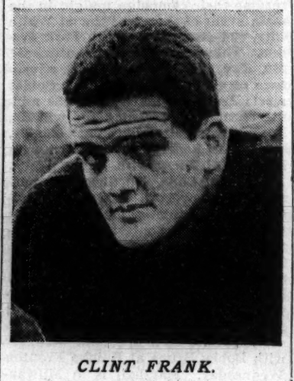
STRONG MAN



CLINT FRANK.

Clint Frank Is Now Yale's Football Hero

New York, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Coaches who have watched Clint Frank upset their prospects agree that this Yale half back from Evanston, Ill., is one of the most remarkable players on the college football field today. Though memories of Larry Kelley still are fresh, Frank is now firmly installed as Yale's football hero.

Even last fall the campus consensus rated Frank the greater player though the headlines, like touchdown passes, fell to Kelley. When Kelley was graduated the football world wondered how Yale would fare without its great end. Today it has the answer. Frank is greater than ever and his genius has kept old Eli undefeated.

Handicapped by Injury.

Since high school days Frank has been a star. While playing with the Evanston prep team he injured a shoulder ligament and decided to let the injury heal. When he prepped further at Lawrenceville, just outside of Princeton, he didn't play at all. As a freshman at Yale he overcame his desire to play so as to rest the shoulder further. As a sophomore he first reported for duty. He came out for half back and didn't impress anybody but Greasy Neale, assistant Yale coach, who vainly insisted he try quarter backing.

One day he looked up Neale and complained:

"Why can't I play all the time instead of just subbing?"

"If you were a quarter back we'd use you all the time," said Neale.

"From now on," said Frank, "I'm a quarter back."

Frank Directs Team.

That's how he caught on regularly at Yale, though since then he's been shifted to left half where he runs the team offensively and defensively. In his first full game the Evanston red head looked like just any other back, but it wasn't long before he was a star of the first magnitude.

One of his greatest games was played against Harvard last year. Harvard was threatening in the closing minutes of play when Yale finally got the ball. Noting his team was demoralized, Frank carried the ball himself for four successive first downs, blasting the Harvard wall for gains of two and three yards a whack, until the game ended.

Frank isn't exactly what you'd call brittle, but his continuous line blasting has left him with many bruises. He's usually heavily taped.

Off the field he refuses to live in the atmosphere of a football hero. He studies as long as necessary and is an excellent student, majoring in economics. He's a good golfer. He dances well. He always wears glasses when off the football field.

YANKEES RALLY IN LAST QUARTER; TIE BENGALS, 17-17

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 17.—(AP)—The New York Yankees scored 10 points in the final period of an American league professional football game today to tie the Cincinnati Bengals, 17 to 17.

With the Bengals leading, 17 to 7, at the opening of the last quarter, Fred Hambright, a substitute back, tossed a 40 yard pass to Ken Strong in the end zone. Nesmith kicked a field goal with less than two minutes to play.

FOOTBALL GOATS TURN TO HEROES WHEN THEY WIN

Vanzo, Jefferson Prove It in N. U.-Purdue Game.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The football world long since would have forgotton Roy Riegels' famous run toward his own goal if California had beaten Georgia Tech instead of losing that 1929 Rose Bowl game, 8 to 7, because of the safety which followed Riegels' error. Victory wipes out memory of mistakes.

Occasionally players are given opportunity to nullify misplays. Again other players save them from suffering penalties for their errors.

So Fred Vanzo and Bernard Jefferson, highly important members of Northwestern's back field, quite likely still are thanking their lucky stars that they're the heroes of the Wildcat victory over Purdue Saturday, 14 to 7.

Bernie Forgets to Think.

Jefferson stopped thinking long enough in the second quarter to permit Jim Zachary, Purdue end, to race past him and into Northwestern's end zone to catch Cecil Isbell's 22 yard pass for a touchdown while Jefferson waved his arms futilely at the ball sailing over his head.

Big Jeff isn't the first half back to take a nap on defense, but the fans who today are applauding Northwestern's second Big Ten victory would have blamed Jeff vociferously had the Boilermakers finished in front, 7 to 0.

Jefferson erased memory of his mistake when he sprinted 34 yards for the tying touchdown.

Vanzo's famous fumble needs no further explanation. That fumble, on Purdue's 12 yard line, became the winning touchdown. Without Don Heap and Nick Cutlich it might have become a touchback and Purdue's ball on its 20 yard line. In that case Vanzo now would be remembered as the player who fumbled away a touchdown against Purdue in 1935 and waited two years to repeat his mistake.

'Twas a Great Battle.

Second guessers never lack for material, but no guessing is needed to say that Purdue and Northwestern played one of the most thrilling games of this or any other season. Purdue easily might have won, but the Boilermakers couldn't plunge eight yards in three plays. The first play in the series was an incomplete forward pass, and having failed to score Purdue then lost because it was willing to gamble on a pass wide to the side, a pass intercepted by Vanzo.

Otherwise, there was no choice between the teams. Northwestern convinced all that it lacks reserve strength. Coach Lynn Waldorf found out the caliber of the second eleven when Purdue covered 53 yards in seven plays.

Buckeyes Promise Trouble.

Northwestern cannot be an even choice this week at Columbus, where Ohio State has been resting for two weeks. Indeed, the Wildcats will have a struggle winning from Wisconsin and Illinois, and when Northwestern goes to Minneapolis on Nov. 13, more than a pound of flesh is going to be demanded by Minnesota.

Whatever confidence Minnesota lost after its surprise defeat by Nebraska and its hollow victory the following week over Indiana was regained Saturday when the Gophers rolled over Michigan, 39 to 6.

Rudy Gmitro, who now probably will be Minnesota's No. 1 quarter back, sparked the offense. Sheldon Beise, former full back who was in Chicago last Friday night on his way to scout Notre Dame, called the turn. He said Minnesota was ready to roll.

Gmitro May Replace Uram.

Now that Andy Uram, left half, has broken his wrist, Gmitro probably will move to that position. He played there in his sophomore year when he and Uram was substitutes for George Roscoe. Moore cannot be displaced at right half and quite probably Vic Spadaccini will fill the demands of the job as blocking quarter back.

Coach Bernie Bierman also seems

George Grosvenor of the Cardinals carries the ball for a short gain during the first quarter of yesterday's game between the Bears and the Cardinals at Wrigley field. He was brought down by Eggs Manske, Bears' left end. The Bears piled up a 16 to 0 lead in the first three quarters and the Cardinals got in one touchdown in the last period to make the score, 16 to 7. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Battles Leads Washington to 34-20 Victory

Washington, D. C., Oct. 17.—(AP)—Half Back Cliff Battles' three long touchdown runs paced the Washington Redskins to a 34 to 20 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates in a National league professional football game today before 12,835.

Battles intercepted Smith's pass on his 35 yard line and ran it back sixty-five yards for a touchdown before the game was 2 minutes old. In the last period he broke loose for goal line sprints of sixty and sixty-two yards.

Pirates Score on Passes.

The Pirates' chief offensive came in the second period, when they scored twice on passes to take a 13 to 7 lead at half time. Fiske passed to McNally for the first from the Redskins' 43 yard line and McNally tossed to Thompson, who ran fifty-five yards with the short pass.

Sammy Baugh's passes to Malone in the third period set the Redskins in position to tie the score, Sammy throwing the touchdown toss from the 7 yard line.

Riley Shoots Scoring Pass.

The Redskins' third touchdown came as Riley Smith passed three yards to Justice over the goal. Then Battles put the game safely away with his long runs.

If You Remember—

Will you remember these soft summer days
When autumn weaves its tapestry of gold,
And you are far removed from the old ways
That saw the beauty of your youth unfold;
And will you dream the dreams of youth again
Treading the primrose paths you used to know
Before regret has seared your heart with pain
And time has touched your temples white with snow.
And some time will you think of one who learned
To love in you the beautiful and true,
Of one whose very soul within him burned
A waxen taper at the shrine of you;
When summer's leaves glow golden in November
Spring will be in my heart, if you remember. —T. E. B.

Giants' Power Grinds Down Eagles, 21 to 0

New York, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Working smoothly behind a big, hard charging line, two sets of New York Giant backs swept to three touchdowns and a 21 to 0 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles today before a crowd of 28,000 at the Polo Grounds.

The Giants' home debut was impressive. Bolstered by Ed Widseth and others, the line outcharged and outmaneuvered the Eagles, who came to town fresh from a victory over the Washington Red Skins. Kink Richards, Hank Soar, and Ed Danowski made the touchdowns.

Giants Score Early.

The crowd was hardly settled when the Giants' offense went to work. With Tuffy Leemans and Richards carrying the ball the home team marched 70 yards for the first score after taking the kickoff. Richards slammed off tackle for this touchdown.

The Giants' second team, led by Soar, had another touchdown in the next period. After gaining over land and in the air to the 11 yard line Ed Danowski shot a pass to Soar in the end zone for the second score. The pass ended a 67 yard offensive.

Eagles' Attack Stalls.

The Eagles tried vainly to come back. Strong in midfield with Smukler and Mort Mortell doing heavy duty the attack stalled inside the 20 yard lines and the passing attack was feeble.

The Giants' final score came two minutes before the end of the game, when, after Soar had dashed 36 yards to the 6 yard line and then put the ball inches from the goal line, Danowski crashed through center. Lineups:

Santa Clara Eleven Routs Portland, 27-0; Unbeaten

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 17.—(AP)—The University of Santa Clara football team, pointing for a second invasion of the New Orleans Sugar bowl, defeated Portland university, 27 to 0, before 7,000 here today. Two of Santa Clara's touchdowns came after sustained drives of 67 and 70 yards. The Broncos, who won from Louisiana State university in the Sugar bowl last New Year's day, are undefeated this season.

FUMBLES LEAD TO TOUCHDOWN AND FIELD GOAL

22,978 See Return of Pro Football.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Opportunity beckoned to the Bears three times in the form of Cardinal mistakes in the opening game of Chicago's professional football season at Wrigley field yesterday and the league leaders seized each chance to win their fourth consecutive game. The score was 16 to 7. This left the Bears in undisputed possession of first place in the National league.

A fumble by George Grosvenor, Cardinal half back, on the third play of the game, gave the Bears their first opening and they scored five thrusts later on Beattie Feathers' four yard plunge to lead, 6 to 0, at the half.

Confused assignments in the Cardinal secondary on the fifth play of the third quarter permitted Jack Manders to score on a pass from Bernie Masterson, which gained 63 yards, and four plays later another fumble by Grosvenor set the stage for a field goal by Manders from the 13 yard line.

Cards March 95 Yards.

During the early minutes of each half, when the Cardinals appeared to be having a hard time making up their minds to play football, the Bears gave promise of running up a record score. Thereafter, however, the Cardinals settled down to the kind of football expected of major league representatives and entertained the 22,978 spectators with a spectacular aerial display that carried them 95 yards to a touchdown early in the fourth period, and twice thereafter forced the Bears right down to their goal line.

The sparkplug of this attack was Gaynell Tinsley, the Cardinals' rookie end, who starred in the Tribune's All-Star game last month. With Pat Coffee, rookie half back from Louisiana State, passing to Tinsley and to Doug Russell when the Bears concentrated on Tinsley, the Cardinals completed five out of seven passes in eleven plays on their touchdown march.

Parker Fumbles in End Zone.

It was the most startling display of open football seen at Wrigley field since Harry Newman's performance in the 1933 championship game. Four of the five completions were consecutive and netted first downs. The Cardinals gained only eight yards by running in this 95 yard advance. Coffee made seven yards and Buddy Parker one as he plunged over for the score. Rookie Bill May of L. S. U. kicked the extra point.

Passes by Coffee to Tinsley, who was on the receiving end of five aerials for a total gain of 51 yards, put the Cardinals right back on the goal line a few minutes later, but Parker fumbled in the end zone as he went over for the touchdown and Masterson recovered for a touchback. The game ended on the Bear 6 yard line where the last play, a pass, Coffee to Tinsley, was knocked down after the Cardinals had advanced 49 yards, largely through Coffee's 38 yard pass to Russell.

March 55 Yards.

The Bears' defense found little in the Cardinal running attack to annoy it after Hal Pangle, Grosvenor, and Jimmy Lawrence had marched 55 yards at the start of the second period in the only sustained drive of the first half. A fourth down pass over Howard Tipton's head in the end zone ended this march.

The Cardinals were able to gain only 92 yards on running plays against 120 for the Bears, although they led in first downs 15 to 9 and in total yards gained 267 to 208.

After establishing a 16 point lead in the third quarter and keeping the Cardinals bottled up behind their 30 yard line until the fourth quarter, the Bears were content to play for the breaks and at no time appeared

WHAT'S BECOME OF FAVORITES AT HALF MILE TRACK?

Plunger Allen Doesn't Like Long Shot Streak.

BY FRENCH LANE.

A searching party is about to be organized with the object in view of finding out what's become of those favorites at the Spartaman's Park race course.

Just who started the movement has not been determined, but Joe Allen, the Cincinnati plunger, is under suspicion. He's one of those fellows who believes that any horse at more than 8 to 5 in the betting has no right to win a race.

Of course, he's been hit hard by this dearth of winning first choices. He's as sad looking as a raven. Folks who endeavor to tell him their stock market troubles are bluntly reminded by him that they know nothing whatever about disaster. Then he waves them away.

Percentage Usually High.

The Sportsman's Park course, ever since it became a cog in the Chicago racing wheel, has until this year been noted for its high percentage of winning favorites.

Last year 42 per cent of the favorites won there, and that was close to the high mark of all tracks in the country. During the first half of this season only 31 per cent of the favorites have been able to dash up to the winning post and shout, "Here I am, Mr. Judge."

And the situation doesn't seem to be getting any better. During the running of last Saturday's eight race program only one public choice got home in front. That single winner was Silvery Cloud in a very wide open betting race in which the choice paid $3.80 to $1 to those who backed her.

The situation will have to change immediately or the percentage of winning favorites at Sportsman's Park may be the lowest of the year in Chicago.

$340,000 Wagered Saturday.

Still, that doesn't seem to annoy any of the other players except Plunger Allen. On Saturday $340,000 was wagered on the outcome of the eight races. That put the average daily betting of the first twelve days of the fall season up to $210,000. Some who profess to know say this is an increase of at least $50,000 a day over any previous meeting ever conducted at the half mile track on the west side.

The top grade two year olds at the track will go into action in today's feature race. It is a dash at five furlongs. Among those in the overnight field are Be Blue, winner of three of her four Chicago starts, Allenwood, a well bred colt that was an easy winner on last Friday, Pelter, the speedster from A. G. Tarn's barn, Novelette, Miss Pittypat, and Transview.

Be Blue, a daughter of Col. Edward R. Bradley's great horse Blue Larkspur, likely will rule as the favorite.

Milwaukee Is Beaten, 2 to 1, by Maccabees

BY OFFSIDE.

The Maccabees defeated the Schlitz Brewers of Milwaukee yesterday, 2 to 1, at Sparta stadium to remain undefeated in the Interstate Soccer league. The teams played on even terms for 30 minutes. Then Cuthburt slipped a pass to Pearlman, who drove into the net.

In the second period the Maccabees went further ahead when Cuthburt again placed the ball for Stirrett, who ran in and beat Mueller. With only five minutes to go, DePratt tricked the defense to beat Griffith for the Schlitz goal. Lineups:

Three Veteran Hawks Show Offense Skill

Muskegon, Mich., Oct. 17.—[Special.]—In the first scrimmage of the season at the Muskegon rink this morning before 500 townsfolk, Paul Thompson, Johnny Gottselig and Mush March, three Blackhawk veterans, displayed brilliant skating and stick handling. Each scored two goals and made one assist.

At times the going became a bit too rough to suit Manager Bill Stewart. Alderico Agamenoni, Loyola university of Los Angeles amateur defense player, collided a bit too frequently and forcefully to suit some of the players, and on two occasions Manager Stewart had to use his whistle to calm ruffled tempers.

Stewart asserted after the workout that all that is needed to give the Hawks a strong team is for either Rookies Cully Dahlstrom or Oscar Hanson to make good. They are battling to fill the only vacant spot on the Blackhawks' roster, a center post. In today's scrimmage as well as in the six practices preceding it each has shown ability. Scrimmage every day will be the daily order of work from now until the opening game in Chicago Thursday, Nov. 4. The exhibition games also are scheduled.

St. Thomas College Team Physician Dies at Field

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 17.—[Special.]—Dr. Charles Thomson Jr., physician to the St. Thomas college football team, died today outside Shibe park at the close of a football game between St. Thomas and St. Joseph's colleges. He was 37. He became ill after treating six injured players. He was a graduate of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Columbia university. A widow, the former Mae Nelson, whom he married two months ago, and a brother survive.

Two Chicagoans Named Olympic Skate Officials

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 17.—[Special.]—Frank M. Kalteux of Chicago, for twelve years a member of the United States Olympic committee, was appointed to that group for four years as was Peter Miller, head coach of the Chicago Catholic Youth organization, by the Amateur Skating Union of the United States today as its two day convention closed.

Others elected on the committee were Henry Kemper, St. Louis; Grover Pedersen, Milwaukee; Harry Tabor, Miami; Louis Denis, Cedar Rapids, Ia., and W. P. Hodous, Cleveland. Chicago also was awarded the national indoor championship event on Feb. 11 and 12. Petoskey, Mich., drew the national outdoor title event on Feb. 5 and 6.

Plans were formulated to finance the Olympic games in 1940 and sanctions were granted three men and one girl skater to make the trip to Europe this winter. This makes it possible for Leo Freisinger, Chicago, C. Y. O. national star, to compete in the Norwegian title events in January.

Officers elected were: President, W. P. Hodous, Cleveland; first vice president, Judge John D. Watts, Detroit; second vice president, Tee Young, St. Louis; third vice president, Alex Baum, Pittsburgh.

Referees appointed were: Bill Taylor, New York; Henry Kemper, St. Louis; Al Hamilton, Cleveland. Starters named were: Frank Denny, Buffalo; Willard Van Willigan, Milwaukee, and R. H. Ross, Detroit. Timers chosen were: James McWhirter, Chicago; Earl Solem, Chicago, and Charles Geveker, St. Louis.

Carmen Tortorello, Chicago; Thomas O'Brien, Buffalo, and Milton Krueger, Milwaukee, were named chief judges.

Cleveland was selected as the convention city next year.

CEDAR RAPIDS WINS.

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Oct. 17.—(AP)—The Cedar Rapids Crushers defeated the St. Paul All-Stars, 7 to 0, today in a Northwest Professional league game.

ANGOTT, PENA MEET IN TEN ROUND BATTLE

Johnny Expected to Press Kentucky Rival.

Sammy Angott, aggressive 132 pounder, will advance against busy Johnny Pena of New York in a ten round bout tonight at Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street. Angott has made seven previous starts at Marigold, winning all except the one he lost to Billy Marquart Sept. 20. The defeat interrupted the Louisville boxer's string of 18 victories.

Pena is expected to press his Kentucky rival. He is fresh from conquests of Lew Feldman, Pete Scalza, Al Reed, and Willie Felice. In his last previous Chicago appearance Johnny whipped Varias Milling at Mills stadium, June 14, 1934. The match was the first 15 rounder held in Illinois. Pena conquered such headliners as Georgie Hansford and Freddy Miller in California.

Johnny Helstrom, Rogers Park lightweight, will be Andy Scrivani's competitor in a five round semi-final. Combatants in matches at four rounds are Emil Campagna and Jack Sylvester, Tony Zale and Bob Gerry, and Joe Chizar and Pat O'Brien.

Bill Weidner and Rudy Kay will resume their campaign tonight in the main event of the mat show at White City, 63d street and South Park avenue. They meet for 60 minutes. At 210, Kay will carry a weight advantage of about 30 pounds. Vic Soldat meets Jack Claybourn in the 30 minute encounter preceding the windup. Pat Kelly is paired with Jack Conley, as is Jose Rodriguez with Ken Fenlon and Al Perry with Denny Lentz. . . . Bud Lane, Northwest gymnasium middleweight, fights Jake Carter, Savoy Athletic club, in a five round featured contest on the amateur card tonight at Northwest arena, 3968 Milwaukee avenue. . . . Billy Sandow, manager of Ed [Strangler] Lewis when the latter held the heavyweight wrestling championship, will second the current titleholder, Everett Marshall, in a one hour struggle with Bobby Bruns at Rainbo Fronton Wednesday. Marshall is in Milwaukee, where he meets Fritz Von Mier tonight. Frankie Talaber, north side light heavyweight, booked to appear in a supporting at the Fronton, clashes with Al Williams on the Milwaukee card. . . . Tony Musto, professional heavyweight rookie from Blue Island, and Harold Ullmer, Milwaukee, have been matched to meet for six rounds on the card topped by Buddy Knox and Art Oliver at White City Friday.

John Henry Lewis, light heavyweight champion, has canceled a scheduled ten rounder with Hank Hankinson at St. Louis Friday following his defeat by Izzy Gastanaga at Detroit Olympia last week. After his return from Detroit yesterday, Larry Amadee, trainer of Lewis, announced the champion will make his next start against Arturo Godoy at Pittsburgh Oct. 28. . . . Jack Blackburn, conditioner of Joe Louis, the heavyweight ruler, is back from a month's rest in Indiana looking for a fighter to train to keep himself busy while Louis is making money by not fighting. Julian Black and John Roxborough, joint managers of Louis, will leave tomorrow for Los Angeles, where they will join the titleholder in a conference with movie officials about the Brown Bomber's forthcoming motion picture. They will return in time to have Joe referee a bout at Chicago stadium Nov. 16. Barney Ross, the welterweight monarch, also is expected to make an appearance at the same show. . . . Phil Rosenberg, student at the University of Illinois, has been given five days' leave to prepare for his six round bout with Bob La Monte, west side 147 pound fighter, at the Park casino on the west side Wednesday. The ten round headliner involves George Salvadore and Chuck Woods, welterweights. Six former world champions—Jimmy Barry, Johnny Coulon, Harry Forbes, George Gardner, Buddy Ryan, and Battling Nelson—will be guests of the management.

BEARS PASS AND KICK TO DEFEAT CARDINALS, 16-7

to be extending themselves offensively. There was considerable excitement among the Bears when the Cardinals opened up with passes late in the game, but the flurry passed when Parker fumbled, the ball rolling over the goal line.

Stars Are Listed.

Ray Nolting, Masterson, Manders, and Beattie Feathers led the Bears' attack, while Goerge Musso, playing guard; Joe Stydahar, Danny Fortmann, and Frank Bausch, the new center, distinguished themselves in the line.

Besides Coffee, Tinsley, and Russell, the Cardinal honor roll included Tony Blazine, restored to a starting berth at left tackle, who ran 23 yards with a lateral from Tinsley for a touchdown which was not allowed because Tinsley's toss had gone forward. Blazine, Bree Cuppoletti, and Hal Pangle were the chief factors in limiting the Bears to 113 yards from scrimmage.

The Bears threw only six passes, completing two, the touchdown toss to Manders and one for 25 yards to Bill Karr. The Cardinals attempted 21 and completed 12.

The only score of the first half developed from Grosvenor's attempt to pass on the third play of the game. Bill Karr, smashing in from his right end position, trapped the Cardinal back. Unable to pass, Grosvenor tried to run, Karr hit him so hard the ball popped out of his arms into the arms of Manske, who returned twelve yards to the Cardinals' 16 yard line.

Feathers Goes Over.

Five plays later the Bears went ahead on Feathers' four yard plunge inside the Cardinal's left tackle. Feathers carried the ball four times in the drive to goal, picking up four yards on two thrusts at the left side of the Cardinal line and seven around the Cardinals' right end. Manders' attempted place kick for the extra point was blocked.

Only one other scoring threat developed in this half, the Cardinals marching fifty-seven yards to the Bears' 17 yard line. A fourth down pass over Tipton's head in the end zone broke up the threat. Tipton had gotten behind the secondary and was in the clear, but Grosvenor's pass sailed over his head against the new left field bleachers.

Midway in this march Grosvenor passed seven yards to Tinsley, who lateralled to Blazine. Blazine slipped away from two tacklers and ran twenty-three yards to the goal line, but the play was recalled and the Cardinals were penalized five yards when Tinsley's lateral was ruled a forward pass.

Bears Increase Lead.

The Bears increased their lead to 13 to 0 in the first few minutes of the third quarter when Masterson passed 18 yards to Manders and the former full back, now the Bears' regular right half back, beat Tipton and Grosvenor in a 45 yard sprint to the goal line. The Bears had received the kickoff at the start of the period and had worked the ball 14 yards to their own 37 yard line in three downs, Nagurski failing twice and Nolting going 14 yards on third down. Masterson then ran back and fired the pass to Manders which netted 63 yards and the score. Manders added the extra point.

After the Cardinals had received the ensuing kickoff and made a first down in three plays, Grosvenor fumbled a poor pass from center and Stydahar recovered for the Bears on the Cardinals' 33 yard line. Masterson's first down pass to Karr netted 25 yards and placed the ball on the 8 yard line. Nolting made only two yards in three thrusts, then Manders dropped back to the 13 yard line and completed the Bears' scoring with a field goal, making the score 16 to 0.

Cards March to Touchdown.

The third quarter ended with the Bears in possession of the ball in midfield. They were unable to gain at the start of the fourth quarter and Francis punted out of bounds on the Cardinals' five yard line. Then the Cardinals began their long drive to their only touchdown.

Coffee picked up two yards on an off tackle smash then threw a pass wild over Tinsley's head. Tinsley picked Coffee's third down pass out of the air among three clutching Bears for 15 yards and a first down on the 22 yard line. Coffee again made two yards off tackle then threw a pass beyond Tinsley's reach. On third down Tinsley made a spectacular catch of Coffee's hard throw for an 18 yard gain and first down on Cardinals' 42 yard line. The tide had changed. The Cardinals were off.

The next three plays were passes by Coffee. Each went for a first down, Russell taking the first for 30 yards and the second for 13 yards, bringing the ball down to the Bears' 15 yard line. Tinsley took another pass for 11 yards. With first down on the 4 yard line Coffee hit over the Bears' left guard for three yards and Parker leaped over center for the touchdown. May kicked the extra point.

Newman, Post Kick Goals; Rochester Wins

Boston, Mass., Oct. 17.—(AP)—Harry Newman and Les Post today provided the Rochester Tigers with two field goals and a 6 to 0 triumph over the Boston Shamrocks in an American league football game before 4,000 at Fenway park. Newman's kick was made in the second period from the 10 yard line. Post's feat was accomplished from the 38 yard line from a slight angle.

Gridiron Goats Become Idols as They Win

to have decided on Schultz as his No. 1 left tackle. Heretofore he has been at guard.

Minnesota now rests two weeks and prepares for Notre Dame. That battle, in pre-season gossip was to be for the championship of the nation. It might have been another Notre Dame-Ohio State battle [remember 1935?]. It still will afford the Irish a chance to redeem themselves, for Notre Dame, tied by Illinois, was beaten by Carnegie Tech Saturday, 9 to 7. There is no reason to doubt that Navy will whip Notre Dame this week, unless the Irish smooth out their attack and find a way to get points as well as yards.

No Surprises Here.

The Iowa-Wisconsin and Indiana-Illinois games followed predicted pattern. Both showed more concerted offense in long marches than did the Purdue-Northwestern game, and it's only coincidence that Indiana and Wisconsin, homecoming hosts, won.

The Hawks, despite excellent work by Kinnick, who promises to become the Big Ten's best kicker; Olson and Eicherly, couldn't keep a second touchdown march going, but by its effective line play, Iowa demands recognition. Wisconsin now has won two conference games and is undefeated, but the Badgers meet their strongest foe so far this season when they travel to Pittsburgh.

Indiana rallied to drive through the Illinois line for a winning fourth period touchdown with Frank Filchock, passing half back, and Full Back Corby Davis doing most of the ball carrying. The Illini came back with a march to the Hoosiers' 6 yard line and there failed on the threshold of the tying score.

Maroons Do Their Best.

Princeton whipped Chicago when the Tigers turned on the power. Chicago did its best but its best still is far short of the demands of major college football. The Maroons may have some satisfaction in their half time lead of 7 to 3, but Princeton won, 16 to 7.

The surprise game of the week's schedule was Syracuse's 14 to 6 conquest of Cornell, which previously had smothered Colgate and last week defeated Princeton. The victory must have been as thrilling to Ossie Solem, former Iowa coach, as Nebraska's triumph over Minnesota was to Biff Jones.

Mud Makes It Even.

The Cornhuskers played a muddy scoreless tie with Oklahoma, from which school Jones came to Nebraska and left his former players in charge of his one time assistant, Tom Stidham. Rain and mud equalized the elevens.

This was not true of Fordham and Pittsburgh, who for a third consecutive season finished in a scoreless deadlock. You'll have a clearer idea of Pitt's strength or weakness after this week's game with Wisconsin, not forgetting the coming battle between Pitt and Notre Dame.

Michigan State, upset by Manhattan a week ago, 3 to 0, had good luck when a fumble and subsequent attempt to run with the ball from behind its own goal line cost Missouri a safety and the game, 2 to 0.

Harvard—a Team to Watch.

Harvard, so Coach Fritz Crisler of Princeton reports, is on its way to having a splendid eleven. Saturday the Crimson tied Navy, 0 to 0. Yale, led by one of the nation's greatest half backs, Capt. Clint Frank of Evanston, defeated Army, 15 to 7.

Alabama removed Tennessee from its march toward a Southeastern conference championship, 14 to 7. Duke university, by scoring in the closing minutes, won from a fine Georgia Tech team, 20 to 19. Louisiana State, Alabama's principal rival, swept aside a major opponent by clipping Mississippi, 13 to 0.

Southern California reasserted its power in its 34 to 14 conquest of Oregon. California remains the team to beat in the Pacific coast race. Washington, defending champion, beaten once, eliminated itself from the fight for the title with a 7 to 7 tie with Washington State.

MANGRUM'S 66 SLICES LEAD OF SMITH, COOPER

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 17.—(AP)—Ray Mangrum of Dayton, O., toured the rainsoaked country club course with a 66, 5 under par, today to boost himself and his partner, Johnny Revolta, into second place in the Oklahoma City $5,000 four ball golf tournament, only 1 point behind the leaders, Horton Smith and Harry Cooper of Chicago.

The watery greens caught up with Smith, whose putting touch has kept his team in the lead three days. Lawson Little of Chicago and Paul Runyan of New York defeated Smith and Cooper, 2 up, to leave the favorites with a plus 9 score. Revolta and Mangrum fired a low ball 65 at Ky Laffoon and Dick Metz, another Chicago pair, to win, 3 up, and boost their score to 8 plus points.

The defeat dropped Laffoon and Metz from second to fourth place with 4 points on the plus side. Little and Runyan are in third place with plus 5. Zell Eaton and Francis Scheider, Oklahoma City, won their first match of the tournament today, defeating Ralph Guldahl, Chicago's national open champion, and Billy Burke, Cleveland, 2 up.

Pitcher Clyde Hatter Dies Suddenly on Auto Trip

Yosemite, Ky., Oct. 17.—(AP)—Clyde Hatter, 29 years old, former Detroit, Louisville, and Milwaukee baseball pitcher who was with Toledo this year, died of a heart attack while motoring with his father from Danville, Ky., to his home here last night.

RICHARDS, LOTT TAKE NATIONAL OPEN DOUBLES

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Oct. 17. — (AP) — Vincent Richards and George Lott won the first national doubles tennis tournament in history today after a five set match with Karel Kozeluh and Bruce Barnes, 1-6, 6-8, 6-3, 7-5, 9-7.

In the crucial 16th game of the final set, Richards and Lott broke through Kozeluh's service and, after Barnes' generalship had brought his team from love-40 to deuce three times, they took the advantage and set point when Kozeluh was caught off balance across the sideline.

Because of the length of the doubles match, the semi-finals singles contest between Lott and Barnes, scheduled for today, was postponed until tomorrow.

Barnes defeated Richards today in a resumption of play of yesterday's match, which was called because of darkness midway in the third set after each had won one set. The scores were 3-6, 6-4, 6-3, 6-3.

Kozeluh won his way to the finals by defeating defending singles champion, Joe Whalen, 6-1, 6-4, 6-0, and Lott entered the semi-finals by eliminating Ben Gorchakoff in the fifth set of a match also carried over until today because of darkness which forced a halt in play Saturday. The scores were 3-6, 6-1, 2-6, 6-1, 6-1.

Fenwick, the defending champion; St. George, Leo, and De La Salle triumphed yesterday to keep their sectional records clear in the Catholic High School league football race.

St. George whipped Loyola, 12 to 6, for its fourth straight north section victory, while Fenwick of Oak Park turned back St. Mel, 12 to 0, before 3,000 at Mills stadium for its second triumph in the north division race.

St. Ignatius Crushed.

Leo crushed St. Ignatius, 32 to 13, for its third victory in the south section, John Galvin, veteran back, scoring four touchdowns to lead the rout. He scored twice on runs of 50 and 60 yards in the first quarter and added two more touchdowns in the second quarter, one on a 99 yard dash.

De La Salle put over touchdowns in the first and final quarters to defeat St. Rita, 13 to 6, for its second south section triumph. It was St. Rita's first defeat.

6-0 Lead At Half.

Fenwick held a 6 to 0 lead over St. Mel at the half due to a drive which started on its own 40 yard line and finished when Rank plunged through center from the one yard line. Barrett scored Fenwick's other touchdown in the last period on a three yard drive.

De Paul to Count on Pass Attack Against Loyola

De Paul university's football team will meet Loyola university of the south in the first battle between the two schools at New Orleans next Sunday. The De Paul eleven has regained its equilibrium through its 6 to 0 victory over North Dakota and Coach Ben Connor is hopeful that the team will go through the rest of its schedule undefeated.

Loyola is famed for its aerial maneuvers but the Demons believe they are the equal of any team in the country in this department. All four of the De Paul back field men are passers, with Pat Howlett probably the best of the quartet. He shares the job with Harry Postaer, right half; Paul Mattei, full, and Bill Corrigan, quarter.

So far De Paul has relied upon a varied attack, but is expected to shoot the works in the Loyola encounter, as far as its passing game is concerned.

Loyola is coached by Larry Mullins, full back on the last Knute Rockne coached eleven at Notre Dame which swept through to two national titles in 1929 and 1930.

NINE OLD MEN WIN, BUT CROWD OVERRULES 'EM

New York, Oct. 17.—(AP)—It was all pretty confusing today when Col. Theodore Roosevelt's Shooting Stars and Lowell Thomas' sturdy Nine Old Men played a softball game for the benefit of a $100,000 athletic field in Theodore Roosevelt Memorial park at Oyster Bay.

By the best available means of computation—they forgot to appoint a scorekeeper until the fourth inning—the Nine Old Men won by something like 13 to 8. But the audience reversed the decision, giving the Shooting Stars the most applause and thus officially the victory. This seemed strange because Dale [How-to-Win-Friends-and-Influence-People] Carnegie played with the Nine Old Men. He got a hit, too, while encumbered by overcoat and hat.

The starting pitchers were George Herman Ruth for the Shooting Stars and Sir Hubert Wilkins.

N. U. Looks at Purdue Result, Points for Ohio

Aside from a few minor injuries Northwestern's football team emerged from the Purdue game in good physical shape and will start preparations today for the Ohio State game at Columbus Saturday.

Fred Vanzo, who received a blow on the nose while stopping Cecil Isbell on the Wildcats 1 foot line, will do his practicing this week wearing a nose guard, and Bob Voigts, tackle, make be unable to drill at all due to a sprained finger.

Second Half Memories.

The Wildcats will enter the crucial Ohio State game with memories of last Saturday's great second half drive serving as an impetus. It was during the latter stages of the Purdue game that the Purple attained the form that marked their 1936 championship campaign.

In the second half the Wildcat line rose to its peak form of the season. It held the Boilermakers for downs twice inside Northwestern's 25 yard line in the third quarter and then repelled Purdue's fourth quarter threat on the 1 foot line.

Calvano's Play Outstanding.

Where Michigan had found the center of the Wildcat line a vulnerable spot, Purdue encountered a staunch defense. A prominent rôle in strengthening the middle sector was played by Mike Calvano, veteran guard, who turned in one of his best performances in three years. He repeatedly piled up Purdue smashes over center and frequently broke thru to drop the ball carrier behind the line of scrimmage.

IOWA PLAYERS HURT.

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 17.—[Special.]—Iowa returned from its defeat at the hands of the Badgers Saturday with two injured players. Glenn Olson, who played most of the game at full back, was reported to have a broken bone in his foot which will keep him out of the Michigan game here Saturday. Floyd Dean, sophomore half back, was on crutches with an injured leg which resulted when a Badger blocker clipped him late in the game.

YOU CAN CROUCH IN A DUCK BLIND FOR $7 PER DAY

Reservations Available Now for Nov. 1 Opening.

BY BOB BECKER.

Duck hunters will find a few blinds which may be rented in the Mississippi river bottoms this fall. The survey we make each year of daily fee hunting spots in the state has turned up several places in the Mississippi river country almost due south of the town of Savanna. The town closest to the daily fee duck hunting is Thomson, Ill. It's about 135 miles west of Chicago.

We have heard from several owners of blinds in the Thomson country. All of them quote lower prices for the rental of a blind, decoys and boat than do operators of day shooting places along the Illinois river. The average rate for renting a blind, decoys and boat along the Mississippi river near Thomson is around $7 to $8.

Here's One for $7.

One resident along the river says he has blinds in a slough back from the river. The rate is $7 a day for one to four shooters. That is, if four men in one party can crowd into the blind it's o. k. with him. He also has a cabin on the bank of the river which the shooters may use and where they may cook a meal if they wish.

The shooting in the Thomson area may be somewhat curtailed this season because of the lack of autumn rainfall. One duck hunter in that area told us that some of the blinds situated on the sloughs and small lakes next to the river might be high and dry unless it rains a lot before November. So hunters along the Mississippi are hoping the weather man will produce some rain before Nov. 1.

Ducks are Driven South.

The cold weather that spread over the middle west last week pushed thousands of ducks out of the north. Reports from Wisconsin and the Illinois river tell of quite a flight from northern lakes. Already there are thousands of mallards and pintails, as well as geese in the Illinois river valley.

Although practically all of the blinds along the Illinois river have been rented for the opening day of the Illinois season [Nov. 1], hunters still have a chance to get duck hunting facilities at the daily fee places later in the season.

The list of daily fee shooting places that we have compiled shows that it will cost from $7.50 a day per man up to $10 a day per man to rent a blind, decoy and boat along the Illinois this fall. The Illinois season opens at 7 o'clock on the morning of Nov. 1.

NEW AIR TRAFIC RULES GOING IN EFFECT ON NOV. 1

Regulations Are Designed to Promote Safety.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 17.—(AP)—New and stringent air trafic rules to make flying safer will go into effect Nov. 1. The regulations, announced today, are the result of nearly two years' study by the bureau of air commerce.

Two types of flight rules are established. The first are for contact flights [those made when weather conditions are sufficiently good to preclude collision hazards], the second for instrument flights [made when weather conditions are such that planes might not avoid collision hazards unless definite restrictions are imposed].

Broad "Rules of Road."

Under the new air trafic rules, contact flights may be made under virtually no restrictions other than broad "rules of the road."

Instrument flights, however, must be made under rigid restrictions. For example:

Pilots must have an instrument rating and their planes must carry complete instrument equipment, including two-way radio.

Calls for Flight Plan.

A definite flight plan—including information on the point of first intended landing, proposed cruising altitudes and air speeds, estimated elapsed time until arrival at destination, and an alternate airport—must be submitted and approved before departure.

Pilots shall not make changes in their flight plans while en route without the approval of the station area in which the flight is progressing.

DR. F. MORLEY, AGED 77, FATHER OF AUTHOR, DIES

In 1887 he came to Haverford college, Pa., as instructor in mathematics and remained as professor of pure science until 1900. HUNGER STRIKER LOSES 2 POUNDS ON HIDDEN FOOD

When Niketas D. Vlavianos, 41 years old, was locked in the county jail Tuesday to serve twenty days for practicing medicine without a license, he announced immediately that he was on a hunger strike.

Apparently Vlavianos, who is pastor of the Godly Science church at 1714 West Madison street, meant what he said. Every day he marched into the jail laundry to work; but when lunch time came he folded his arms and watched his fellow prisoners eat. Saturday he told his visitors that he was still feeling well, although he had lost twenty pounds.

Somewhat alarmed at this, Assistant Superintendent George Stoltz and Dr. Harold Theodore, the jail physician, weighed Vlavianos yesterday. They discovered that he had lost but two pounds. Then they searched his cell and uncovered a sandwich. This caused them to reason that he would not starve to death until his reserve rations are exhausted.

NEWS OF FINANCIAL AND GRAIN MARKETS

WHO OR WHAT CAUSED CRASH? WALL ST. ASKS

Events in Business Again Are Mixed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 17.—Last week saw a continuation of the falling stock market and persistent efforts to determine who or what is responsible for the slump. The results along this line were fair to middling.

While many persons along the financial row express the fear that the stock market decline may have an adverse effect on trade in the months ahead, it is still felt that the stock market has drawn apart from business activities due to a technical situation caused by outside influences and that many stocks are selling "cheap"—some of them selling at little more than the liquidation value of their current assets.

The average agreed that there had been a loss of 7 points or better in representative stocks during the week. THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE average for fifty stocks showed a net decline of 7 points and the Dow-Jones industrials were off 7.6 points.

New Lows During Week.

New lows all along the line were the order of the week, with the bottom generally reached on Friday. A loss of 60.45 points has been recorded so far from the high of 194.40 for the Dow-Jones industrials this year.

Trade news again was mixed, so there was little help in determining influences from this angle. While business activity has slipped to the lowest levels in a year, it represents no sharp decline, the analysts say, only an easing. Retail sales, however, were reported improving.

Steel operations took another dip. Electric power output was well maintained, although the rate of gain over a year ago lessened. Freight car loadings lost ground. The possibility that the Committee for Industrial Organization and the American Federation of Labor might get together on a peace program lent encouragement. International news was also considered favorable as regards America's keeping out of the Spanish and far eastern wars.

Two Prominent Statements.

Two public statements played a prominent part in the week's market actions. First was President Roosevelt's fireside chat and call for a special session of congress. While the President implied that Wall street's jitters were of its own making and belittled the effect that proposed legislation would have upon the markets and general business, the financial men still retained the legislative bugaboo, even if reservedly. They looked only moderately happy when speaking of the extra session of congress and its relation to federal restrictions on trading and high taxes.

The second outstanding statement of the week was that of Winthrop W. Aldrich, president of the Chase National bank, largest bank in the country. Wall street was openly thrilled by Aldrich's taking up the cudgel in their defense, citing Wall street honesty and laying blame for the adverse market situation on the doorstep of the administration and particularly the securities and exchange commission.

Two Investment Concerns Show Lower Asset Value

New York, Oct. 17.—(AP)—The Adams Express company, an investment concern, today listed the asset value of its common stock, based on market values as of Sept. 30, at $17.26 per share, compared with $22.84 on Dec. 31, 1936, and $19.19 on Sept. 30, 1936. Assets of the National Investors corporation on Sept. 30 were reported at $6.42 per share of common stock, against $7.83 a share at the commencement of business April 1, 1937.

Corporate Triplets.

Depreciation, depletion, and obsolescence are triplets of corporate finance. They are found on the income statements of practically all corporations. They are earmarks of prudent management.

Were an individual to manage his personal affairs as a corporation does, he would make allowance each year for depreciation or obsolescence of his clothing or his automobile. He would provide a fund to replace these articles as they wear out or become useless to him.

If his suit cost $60 and will wear three years, he should set aside $20 each year so that he will have money to replace it. If the suit is expected to last only two years, $30 a year should be set aside annually.

A corporation makes provision for buying new machinery when the old wears out or becomes out of date, for putting up a new building when needed. For these purposes it deducts from each year's earnings the amounts calculated to cover the cost of doing business that year in terms of the wear and tear on plant and machinery.

If a $100,000 piece of machinery is expected to wear out or become obsolete in five years, the corporation deducts $20,000 each year for depreciation and obsolescence. The cost of buildings is handled similarly, the charge usually being termed depreciation. Obsolescence is the term more often applied to machinery.

Depletion is the word used by mines and other corporations which "use up" their assets in the normal course of business. A mine eventually is exhausted and the depletion charge represents the rate at which the resources are disappearing.

Export Sales of U. S. Wheat Rise Sharply

Export sales of American wheat last week were the largest for any comparable period since the beginning of the current crop season on July 1. An estimated 7 million bushels of wheat were sold for future shipment and actual clearances of wheat from American ports were placed at approximately 2 million bushels.

Last week's sales brought total export transactions this season to more than 30 million bushels, of which half has cleared. The amount is less than was expected earlier this year, but the export demand in the last few days has expanded materially, suggesting that a substantial amount may be disposed of in the next few weeks.

Export Competition Small.

Competition in the export market now is comparatively light. The United States should make its best showing between now and the end of the calendar year, after which Argentina and Australia will return to the market as active suppliers. Meanwhile, the principal competition for American wheat in the world market is coming from the Danubian countries and Russia.

Russia has shipped more wheat abroad than was calculated, but supplies remaining for export are still as uncertain as at the beginning of the season.

Wheat prices in Chicago declined about a cent a bushel last week on contracts calling for December and May delivery. The July, 1938, future fell 2¾ cents to 92¼ cents on the basis of the long range prospect for next year's crops.

McKeesport Tin Plate.

Investors' Guide: Please be kind enough to send me information concerning the McKeesport Tin Plate corporation—J. A. H.

Answer: This concern is the fourth largest American producer of tin plate and ranks third in the manufacture of cans and other metal containers. It has an annual capacity of 400 million pounds of tin plate and 450 to 500 million cans.

Manufacturing is concentrated on the Youghiogheny river near McKeesport, Pa., convenient to cheap water transportation and sources of steel.

About one-third of plate production is used by the company's own can division. The rest is made into roofing, automobile parts and miscellaneous products or is sold to other container makers. The plate and can divisions contribute about equally to earnings. Production in the can division is about evenly divided between general line industrial cans, principally sold to the oil, paint, and chemical industries, and packers' cans, used for packing food, beer, and wines.

Because of relatively stable demand for its products, this company has made money consistently and paid dividends regularly for 25 years.

Net income from Jan. 1 to July 3, 1937, was $773,000 or $1.06 a share on the 727,584 shares outstanding since merger of McKeesport Tin Plate and its subsidiary, National Can company, and issuance of two new $10 par shares for each of the no par shares previously outstanding. Figures are not comparable, but net in the first half of 1936 was $740,000 or $2.47 a share on the 300,000 McKeesport no par shares then outstanding.

In August, 1937, the company reported capacity operations and good prospects for the normally larger earnings in the second half of the year. Larger volume has been offsetting lower selling prices and higher labor and material costs. Profits in 1936 were cut by increased costs and selling price adjustments required by the Robinson-Patman act. Some operating economies and tax savings are anticipated as a result of the merger. The record of recent years follows:

	Sales.	*Income †Net income.	per. sh.
1936	$14,968,000	$1,770,000	$5.90
1935	14,408,000	2,135,000	7.12
1934	11,185,000	1,859,000	6.20
1933	13,685,000	1,888,000	6.29
1932	9,755,000	1,503,000	5.01
1931	12,777,000	1,953,000	6.51

*Based on 300,000 shares. †Including equity in earnings of National Can company.

There is no funded debt or preferred stock, but stockholders will be asked Oct. 18 to authorize 100,000 preferred shares. Directors intend to sell part of the new stock to raise $5,000,000 cash—$2,000,000 to pay bank loans and the rest to reimburse the treasury for plant expansion and equipment.

Dividends of $1 quarterly were paid on the common from 1928 through April 1, 1931, with extras of $1.50 in 1930, 1931, and 1936. Since the merger and stock split payments of 50 cents quarterly have been paid.

The stock deserves a rather high rating.

NEW CHRYSLER CARS PLACED ON DISPLAY TODAY

Models Improved, but Still Conventional.

BY HAL FOUST.

The Chrysler line for 1938 will be displayed in dealer showrooms this morning, but it will not include the bulbous front models. The teardrop jobs were an engineering success but a sales failure. All 1938 Chryslers will be of the more conventional style.

The Airflow, as the aerodynamic number was advertised, pioneered mechanical advancements which have since been adopted by the entire industry. It placed the engine forward in the chassis to eliminate "teeter totter" on the roads. It widened the seats. Like experiences of other pioneers, the model did not gain general recognition of its merits.

The 1938 Chryslers incorporate refinements of these and other design features developed by the back-side-foreward models, as they were caricatured a couple of years ago. Riding comfort, for example, is now embodied in a style of established acceptance.

Horse power of the engines has been increased through mechanical betterments that will not sacrifice economy in fuel consumption. Brakes have been enlarged. The chassis is strengthened.

STEEL OUTPUT SAGS TO 63% OF PLANT CAPACITY

Steel ingot production last week was estimated yesterday by the magazine Steel at 63 per cent of capacity, compared with 66 per cent in the preceding week. The Chicago district showed the largest recession, dropping 8 points to 57 per cent. Pittsburgh declined 2 points to 60, eastern Pennsylvania 4.5 points to 51, Youngstown 2 points to 58, Buffalo 2.5 points to 67.5, and Birmingham 7 points to 70 per cent.

Cleveland increased operations 5 points to 68, and New England was 5 points higher at 70 per cent of capacity.

MARINELLO

OCTOBER 18, 1937.

AN OPEN LETTER TO AMBITIOUS GIRLS.

Do you want part of one and one-half Million Dollars? According to the most reliable figures available, more than $1,500,000.00 is spent annually in Beauty Shops in Chicago alone. Every ambitious girl has an opportunity to secure her share of this huge sum, by entering the profession of Beauty Culture.

Think of the opportunities offered by an industry of such proportions. And, in Beauty Culture, as in any other field, the girl or woman who will profit most is the one who has the advantage of the finest training.

Marinello offers that training—the finest, most thorough that is offered anywhere. Beauty shop owners have the highest esteem for Marinello-trained operators, which accounts for the fact that Marinello graduates are so much in demand, and why so many have achieved outstanding success as managers and beauty shop owners.

If you are interested in entering this interesting, profitable profession, it will be to your advantage to have a personal talk with me at Marinello [National School of Cosmeticians, Inc.] 108 N. State-street, Chicago, the foremost school of Beauty Culture in the world. Day and evening classes at Marinello must necessarily be limited, therefore it will pay you to visit our school today. If you cannot do this, write or phone State 5057 for National Descriptive Manual.

She said she had met their demands in full.

Every dot on the map in center (above) represents an accident involving one or more deaths or personal injuries on Roosevelt road (U. S. 330)) and Lincoln highway (U. S. 30) between Geneva and Fulton. Along this 105 mile stretch 91 accidents have occurred since Jan. 1. The photographs illustrate some of the physical hazards to drivers which were revealed in a survey of this route—hazards which, according to trafic experts, could be alleviated. These perils include faults in the road itself, roadside obstructions to proper vision, narrow bridges and narrow culverts, and a lack of warning signs for all hills and curves. The route, crossing northern Illinois, is heavily traveled, but it has been cited as failing to give motorists maximum protection against their human weaknesses.
